Charles McGregor Dead.

Cincinnati, Aug. 1.—Commander Charles McGregor died at the age of 46 years, this morning at 1:40 o'clock, at the Emery hotel, attended by General and Mrs. M. B. Sweitzer, his sister, and his friend and comrade in arms, Capt. Vandergrift. The life of Commander Charles McGregor, United States navy, was devoted to his country. For over thirty years his days were filled with heroic service. From earliest manhood until the time of his death he undertook the hardest tasks uncomplainingly and performed the severest duties unflinchingly in love of country. He was the son of Robert McGregor and was born on Mt. Auburn, Cincinnati.

Another Gold Find.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 1.—It is reported by parties from Montgomery county, N. C., that another rich gold find has been made close to the Harrie river in that county. It was discovered that two of the natives had about four quarts of gold nuggets and that they were in the habit of spending their nights away from home. They were watched and it was found that they were working a very rich vein on the property bought recently by Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, and associates. A telegram has been sent to Mr. Spooner and the work has been stopped.

The Lumber Trade.

San Francisco, Aug 1.—The Wood and Iron, newspaper, in an article on the lumber trade for the first six months of the current year says that a comparison of the exports with those of the same period last year, shows that we are about 5,000,000 short, and nearly 11,000,000 feet in excess for the same period in 1889. The exports during the first six months of 1889 aggregated 64,000,000 feet as against 69,000,000 in the same period of 1890. The principal shipments were made to Australia, Hawaiian islands, Chili, Peru and China.

Charged with Theft.

Pittsburg, Aug. 1.—Jefferson D. May, ex-postmaster at Beaufort, S. C., is confined in the central police station, charged with stealing a watch and chain from a boarding house in this city.

He sent the stolen watch to Mrs. Josie Lamb, of St. Louis, and she returned it in response to a telegram from police headquarters here. May has confessed the crime. He is a very light mulatto. In 1884 he was a delegate to the republican national convention.

Hailes Will Not Run.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The Journal announces that it is authorized by Lieutenant Governor Hailes to say for him positively and finally that in no event will he permit himself to be either actively or passively a candidate for governor. Mr. Hailes has twice before announced this determination but as there seemed to be a feeling among the republicans that he would accept if nominated he has issued the above ultimatum.

Nathan Dye Dead.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Prof. Nathan Dye, one of the pioneer teachers of music in this city, died of pneumonia last night, aged 83 years. Several of his pupils, among them Lillian Russell, have made reputations on the lyric stage. Prof. Dye became noted for his abolition principles, and for 20 years before the war took a prominent part in advocating freedom for the slaves of the south.

The Russian Edict.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Acting Secretary of State Wharton asserted positively today that the department had no information respecting the alleged suspension of the edict against the Jews by the Russian government. Nothing has been heard from Consul General Crawford at St. Petersburg for some time past. This is regarded by the department as convincing proof that no such action has been taken.

Bellevue Pavements.

Bellevue, O., Aug. 1.—Our city dads met in adjourned session last evening and accepted the bid of McNerney & Son of Norwalk, O., for the paving of Main street from the west side of Kilbourne to the east side of Sandusky street. There were eight bids, the lowest being a trifle over $8,000, which is the one accepted.

A Farmers' Ticket.

Wapakonetta, Aug. 1.—(Special)—Ninety-two delegates representing the Farmers' alliance of this county, met here yesterday and nominated the following ticket: Representative, A. C. Butler, republican; clerk, S. L. Bitters, republican; treasurer, Jos. Gearing, democrat; prosecutor, A. J. Culliton, democrat; commissioner, J. T. Reed, democrat; infirmary director, H. W. Snethkamp.

Quarter of a Million Blaze.

Liverpool, Aug. 1.—A disastrous fire which broke out in Grundy street destroyed many thousands of bales of cotton which were stored in a warehouse on that street. The flames spread rapidly and before the fire was placed under control, property to the amount of $250,000 had been consumed.

Publishers Unite.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The announcement is made that the two firms of R. S. Peale and company and the People's Publishing company have united. This combination has a capital stock of $1,000,000, and is stated to be the largest subscription book firm in the world. The name of the new concern is the R. S. Peale company, of which R. S. Peale is president.

To be Made a Cardinal.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—O d rumors have been revived in Catholic church circles to the effect that the pope is about to promote Archbishop Feeban to the dignity of cardinal. The story goes that Pope Leo will mark his recognition of the opening of the World's fair by giving the red hat to the archbishop in 1892.

MUST HAVE MONEY

Peffer on the Needs of the Country.

Turn it Out by the Carload at Washington

And Scatter it to a Suffering People.

Uncle Sam to Rat Uncle John Out of His Job.

The Kansas Senator Would Have the Government Open a Pawn Broker's Office on a Gigantic Scale.

Fremont, Aug. 1.—(Special)—As mentioned in yesterday's BEE the Farmers' alliance of Sandusky county was addressed by the new Kansas senator, W. A. Peffer, at the fair grounds.

By 2 o'clock an audience of perhaps a thousand men, women and children had assembled, and a preliminary speech was made by a local orator, J. D. Roach.

At 3 o'clock the orator of the day, the renowned Kansan, was driven to the meeting place, and was on exhibitian, as it were, for a couple of hours.

The senator addressed the audience from a temporary stand erected in front of the grand stand and spoke in an earnest manner for at least two hours.

Senator Peffer is an entertaining speaker, and barring his uncouth shape, is, perhaps, as fitting a successor to Ingalls as could have been selected from the state of Kansas.

His diction is pure and he has a sort of sage-like appearance which lends a charm to his remarks. While speaking, he invariably, unless when making an illustration, keeps his right hand on his breast, and uses his left for gesticulating, to which he is not much given.

He was attired yesterday in a broadcloth suit, his coat having silken lapels. A gold-mounted pair of eye-glasses were suspended to a pin in his coat, and a 75 cent old fashioned silver watch chain was appended to a button hole in his vest.

His whiskers are jet black, reaching below his waist, and his face is sallow, with a retreating forehead. His arms are very long, with slender fingers, and when speaking he stands in a slightly stooping position.

Such is a passable description of the man who whipped John James Ingalls, and will occupy the "iridescent" statesman's seat in the senate for the next six years.

Peffer was introduced to the audience by the president of the county alliance, and at once began his address, speaking without the use of notes.

He alluded primarily to the origin of the people's party, its aims and objects, and began without mentioning parties or names a terrible arraignment of the management of the affairs of government for the past 10 years.

He spoke of the needs of the people and asserted that they could get no relief from the old parties.

"We farmers," said he, "are a nation of slaves, worse off than those emancipated by Lincoln. They were slaves to taskmasters, but we are slaves to Wall street and the money aristocracy of the country, a power more cruel and vindictive than hell itself; a power which deliberately robs us of our substance and then by enormous and inconsiderate rates of interest sucks our life blood from our veins.

"What relief is offered us by the two great parties in this country? Let us see. One offers us relief by lower taxation, the other by higher taxation, but if the entire tariff were removed it would not be a drop in the bucket.

"What we need is more money in this nation. We have not enough to do business with. No wonder the farmers on the bleak prairies of the west are literally starving to-day. Shall I tell you the reason?

"The sharks of Wall street have taken from them their substance and offer to loan it back to them at an enormous rate of interest.

"We need much more money in the country. But, my friend says how will we get it? To this I answer, we will make it.

"But, says he, that would be fiat.

"Yes, fiat, but what is any money but fiat? Fiat money is good enough. It is better than no money at all.

"Let me tell you about this fiat money. Do you see this silver dollar? They tell me that it is only worth 70 cents. Supposing that to be true, you can take that dollar and buy a dollars worth of sugar or coffee with it. You lose nothing by taking it, even if it is a fraud upon its face.

"So with this paper dollar. It is only a fiat of the government. What we must have is more money and a more equal distribution of it, and it is not particular how we get it.

"One of the great parties comes forward and says 'Farmers, we will give you reciprocity.'

"What will the kind of reciprocity they offer us avail? With what countries do they offer us reciprocity? With a few South American republics with whom the manufacturers of the United States have business alone. Why does not this party offer us reciprocity with European countries—England, Germany and France—whither the American farmer must look for a market?

"Let these great parties give us more money, enough to meet our requirements, and in 24 hours after the enactment of a law to that effect there would not be a corporal's guard left of the people's party. We sprang into existence to correct existing abuses, and when they are corrected we have nothing more to live for.

"We demand also that the government loan us money at 1 per cent. Now we are compelled to pay 10 per cent., and it devours us like some great monster.

"The sub-treasury plan meets with my approbation, and would afford a certain means of relief.

"Men of Ohio, upon your shoulders devolves great duties. The people who are destitute on the plains of the great west are reaching out their hands supplicating you for aid.

"Shall they cry in vain? I beseech of you cast off the shackles which now are fastened on your limbs, and stand forth free men and free women in a free country.

"This will be a revolution, but not of blood. It will be an upheaval of the money power, and a return to the good old ways of years ago."

KILLED BY THE MARSHAL.

A Negro Murderer Has His Throat Cut By an Officer.

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 1.—Town Marshal Goodbread, of Jessup, yesterday morning killed "General" Bartow Fluker, the negro who murdered a woman at Brunswick a few nights ago.

Goodbread captured his man at a coal chute a few miles from Jessup. On his way to town with the prisoner, the latter made a dash for liberty. Then followed a desperate fight. The negro had a knife and tried to kill Goodbread, wounding him slightly. The negro rushed on the marshal and threw him down and grabbed his pistol. The marshal held on to the pistol, too, and in the scuffle got hold of the negroe's knife and cut his throat with it.

STRYKER NOTES.

News of a Discouraging Nature from the West.

Stryker, O. Aug. 1.—(Special)—J. H. Guyman has returned from Tacoma where he spent several weeks prospecting. He reports that town as going backward for the present. Like Wichita and other western centers, property has taken a tumble and the auctioneer is at work to find discount values on many kinds of merchandise and real estate.

Private letters from Butte City give account of similar conditions to the prosperity of that mining camp but in less discouraging extent.

The representatives of Toledo trade in Stryker this week are: E. H. Parkhurst, E. Quigley, C. Numan, C. E. Becker, S. E. Hutchins, O. Van Osdale, J. E. Thomas, F. W. Dingley, H. Herzog & Son, J. M. Weier, G. C. Hoehler, E. Herskovitz and R. H. Bradley.

Another of the Props Fall Out.

Dublin, Aug. 1.—Mr. E. Dwyer Gray, part owner of the Freeman's Journal, publishes a letter in that paper in which he says that, in view of the revelations made during the progress of the suit for libel of Mr. Henry Campbell, M. P. for South Fermanagh and private secretary to Mr. Parnell, against the Cork Daily Herald, and yesterday's utterances of Messrs. Dilion and O'Brien, he will henceforth reject Mr. Parnell's attempt to retain the leadership of the Irish national party.

Nickel Steel Armor.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The navy ordnance department has made a very careful test of the nickel steel armor plate and obtained satisfactory results. As a result of the test the department has decided to order 10 three-inch plates for use on the upper layer of the protected deck of the cruiser New York, and if the plates can be obtained at a satisfactory price they will be used on cruiser No. 12.

AN ARMY OF EMPLOYES.

Twelve Hundred Pension Clerks Discharged.

Their Work Finished and They Have Been Turned Loose to Seek Other Government Jobs.

Washington, Aug. 1.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon 1,200 employes of the Census Office ceased to draw salary from Uncle Sam, and as many expert punchers, enumerators, calculators, &c., are without employment. There must be an end to all things, and particularly of the census work, and the employes who will be dismissed knew when they assumed their duties that their tenure of office would be uncertain.

The leases held by the government on the Second National bank building, opposite the post-office department; Lincoln Hall, and the National Fire Insurance building, on F street, have expired, and all of those buildings will be given up.

This work being over there were 1,200 clerks discharged, and the yellow envelopes were given out and diplomatic relations declared off.

Of this number not less than 800 go out by reason of the expiration of the period of time for which they were employed. In every many cases Supt. Porter has extended the time of those appointed for ninety days.

These extensions run from ten to thirty days in different cases, and were made so that the work could be pushed along as rapidly as possible and the clerks permitted to go out together.

Of course, there are many who think the department ought to provide for them whether there is work or not, but the great majority recognize that the best has been done for them that could be and accept the inevitable in the proper spirit.

The people who went out were principally engaged in the population division, while about 200 of them were engaged on the farms, homes, and mortgage account. In this division the department has carried on the most extensive correspondence in the history of the country, having written more than 2,500,000 people relative to their mortgage indebtedness, and of this great number 83 per cent. have promptly responded, the cost being much less and the work more accurate than it would have been if conducted by special agents.

There has been some refusals to answer, but the law provides a penalty of $100 fine, and the Attorney General will in a few days issue a letter to district attorneys throughout the states notifying them to bring suit against those who refuse to obey the law.

There may be some inquiry as to the reasons for this wholesale discharge of clerks, in view of the fact that when the tenth census was taken they held on for years. The answer to this query is easy. The tenth census dragged along for eight years. There was a small force of people employed and necessarily their terms of service was extended. The department kept running out of money and the appropriations were made in little dribs.

When the work of this census was begun Mr. Porter told his people he had the necessary appropriation, and was going to push the work. Instead of taking people at different times, and meeting with countless obstacles by reason of shortness of funds, Mr. Porter put a large force at work, kept them at it steadily, and the business being systematized has borne fruit. As fast as the work in one branch is completed the clerks are dismissed.

Mr. Porter now has the material for three volumes in the hands of the printer, these three volumes being devoted to "mines and mining," "wealth, debt, and taxation," and "transportation." In addition to this there has already been issued in bulletin form twelve times as much matter as was issued during the entire working period of the last census force. Superintendent Porter expects to have seven more volumes in the press this year, including the compendium and digest.

"Within the next four weeks," said he yesterday, "I hope to be able to present a bound copy of the population of the United States and territories by minor civil divisions. This will not be subject to revision, but will be a final work, complete in every particular."

SUIT FOR SLANDER.

Mrs. Mitchell Wants a Hundred Thousand From Sharon.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Frederick W. Sharon has had suit brought against him by Mrs. Sarah Mitchell, who claims $100,000 for slander.

The alleged slander consists in certain words used in a published interview with Mr. Sharon, in which he was quoted as saying he considered Mrs. Mitchell a "blackmailer pure and simple," for having tried to obtain money from the Sharon estate for the suppression of letters left by the late Charles L. Livingstone, which relate to the estate. When Livingstone, who was formerly manager of the Palace hotel and the Alta California newspaper, died, he left to Mrs. Mitchell a box which was said to contain letters from Frank R. Newlands and Justice Field. It was reported that Mrs. Mitchell demanded money from Sharon for the suppression of the letters which were said to contain damaging references to the Sharon estate.

Mrs. Mitchell says she has never offered the letters to any one and that she will show them to no one until the right time comes. She says there is much in the letters of public interest.

Will Be Court-Martialed.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The court of inquiry appointed to meet at the Norfolk navy yard to investigate the alleged theft of goods by the paymaster's clerk, Van Vracken, has recommended that he be court-martialed, and a court will be appointed to meet at the Norfolk yard Tuesday next to try him.

Declared a Dividend.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy directors have declared the regular 1 per cent. quarterly dividend.

THE FARMERS A QUANTITY

In the Coming Campaign in Ohio,

Thinks Congressman Haynes of Fremont.

An Interesting Interview on the Political Situation — Campbell Stronger Than in '89.

Fremont, Aug. 1.—(Special)—In Sandusky county as in all other northwestern Ohio counties it is apparent that the result of the coming election will depend largely upon the strength of the farmers' movement. The alliance in this county is well organized and will be an unknown quantity. The managers of both of the great parties are at sea.

The democrats of Sandusky county are confident that they can hold their forces well in hand, although it may take an effort. Democratic farmers seem to be sort of apathetic, and the republicans more so. They seem to look on the people's party as a movement directly in their interest, and many of them assert boldly that they will vote that ticket.

A Bee called upon Col. W. E. Haynes to-day, who is spending his vacation at home attending to his business affairs. Besides having heavy interests in a couple of banks he owns several farms, and just at this time is engaged in drilling a number of gas wells on them.

"I have not been moving about much among the people," said the congressman, "but I do not find the interest which existed in former years, in either party, for the success of their respective tickets. This farmers' movement has more bottom to it than is popularly supposed.

"This morning I met an old friend of mine out in the county, a man who for years has been one of my staunchest supporters. 'Col.,' said he, 'I intend voting the ticket of the People's party this fall.'

"I was amazed at that sort of declaration from him, but he reiterated it in such manner as to leave no grounds for belief in his insincerity. 'My neighbor over there, a republican, intends doing the same thing,' continued he. This is only one instance of many which have fallen under my observation."

"Do you regard Gov. Campbell as stronger than he was two years go?"

"Yes. His administration has suited the people of Ohio, and although he may have been charged with errors of judgment, he has been clean-handed and should be indorsed by a re-election.

"He will have the almost unanimous support of the party, and, as against a candidate before the people on an unpopular platform, ought to be elected.

"Gov. Campbell is able and sagacious, as a politician he has few equals and as a campaigner no superiors."

"Have you heard of any republicans that will not vote for McKinley?"

"No, and I have heard of no democrats who will not vote for Campbell. The new secret ballot law is one of the best laws made by the late legislature, and its workings will prevent any political prognostication.

"People will enter those booths and they will take a ballot and a pencil and vote for whom they please. The political forcaster will not be of much availability for this reason this year. Owing to existing conditions, democrats ought to have things very much their own way."

Catholic Honors.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 1.—This morning Right Rev. Emele Grouard was consecrated vicar apostolic of the Athabasca river and McKenzie river district at St. Boniface cathedral by his grace, Archbishop Tache, assisted by their lordships, Rt. Rev. Bishop Grandin, of St. Albert, N. W. T., and Rt. Rev. Bishop Shanley, of Jamestown, N. D. The ceremony was imposing and attended by prominent members of the Catholic clergy from all parts of Canada and from Minnesota and the Dakotas. It is the first time such a celebration was ever held in this country.

Bar Harbor, Aug. 1.—The United States warships Petrel and Palladelphia have arrived here from Halifax.

FROM THE FRIGID ZONE.

Sherman is Still in the Senatorial Fight.

The Cuyahoga Legislative Ticket to be Set Up Antagonistic to Foraker.

Mansfield, Aug. 1.—The senior republican organ of Cleveland would consider itself guilty of a heinous crime if it printed all the political news.

If its correspondent at this place had sent the current political developments it would have been stated that Senator Sherman has recently been visited by several Cleveland friends.

Their mission was to induce the senator to pay Cleveland a visit in the same manner that he recently visited his nieces and his aunts at Cincinnati.

But the senator's experience at Cincinnati in precipitating the senatorial issue has taught him a lesson from which he proposes to profit and he has concluded that it will not be well to visit the forest shaded "city of marble."

Instead of putting in an appearance in person, to look after the senatorial forces, in the interest of ex-Gov. Foster, the real candidate, he will send a man high in official position and well up in the councils of the republican party, to set up the pins and see that arrangements are made, if possible, to nominate an anti-Foraker legislative delegation.

This emissary of the Foster-Sherman senatorial combination is scheduled to arrive in Cleveland next Saturday on his mission in the interest of the federal office holders.

His Accounts in Bad Shape.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 1.—John Eckhart, a young real estate dealer, has disappeared, leaving his accounts in a badly unsettled shape. He is thought to be in Canada. Speculation in real estate caused his embarrassment. His debts aggregate about $10,000.

Woman Suffrage Defeated.

London, August 1.—A dispatch from Sydney, N. S. W., says the legislative assembly has by a vote of 57 to 34 rejected the motion offered by Sir Henry Parkes in favor of granting suffrage to women in New South Wales.

ELLIOTT'S CASE.

Motion Made By Powell for a New Trial.

Columbus, O., Aug. 1.—Gen. Thomas E. Powell, of counsel for defense in the Elliott case, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday afternoon. It covers the statutory grounds and assigns the following reasons why a new trial should be granted:

Because it was not a lawful nor fair and impartial jury, jurors not being qualified because they had previously formed and expressed opinions and were biased and prejudiced; because the court overruled the application for a change of venue; irregularity in the proceedings of the court, prosecuting attorney and witnesses, by which the defendant wss prevented from having a fair trial; irregularity in the argument before the jury; the misconduct of the jury and state's witnesses for the state; accident and surprise; that the verdict is not sustained by sufficient evidence, and is contrary to law; newly discovered evidence important to the defense; error in the admission and in the refusal to admit evidence offered by the defense, and in the charge to the jury, and in refusing to give special instructions, and error in giving the jury, several days after they had been deliberating, a partial synopsis of the evidence; and that the grand jury was an illegal one.

SENECA COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Candidates Selected to be Placed in Nomination at the Convention August 15.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 1.—(Special)—The democracy of the city of Tiffin were aroused and alert last night to attend the various ward caucuses to select delegates to the county convention, to be held on the 15th inst.

In every ward the feeling was aroused to the utmost pitch, and the attendance has seldom been equaled. Just now the members of the party appear to be peculiarly sensitive, and each and every voter is prepared to enter the lists at any moment to further the general cause.

Consequently the large attendance at each of the ward caucuses last night was probably not so much indicative of an absorbing interest in the purely local contest as illustrative of the alertness of the democracy and an eagerness to give force and effect to every movement that would tend to aid and sustain the cause of the party in the impending contest in the state.

The results of the caucusses provide small basis upon which to build the hopes of one or the other candidates for position on the county ticket.

The contest in the county centers largely upon the auditorship, and the vote cast in the city failed to take into consideration any other than city candidates.

As a fair estimate of the returns indicate, Bour, present deputy auditor, has carried the city by a vote in the convention of 47 to 50 against John Ehrenfried, a popular working democrat.

The townships hold their caucusses this afternoon.

M'KINLEY'S CAMPAIGN.

The Opening Speech to be Made at Niles.

The First Great Gun to be Fired on August 22 at the Tin Soldier's Birthplace.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Yesterday Major McKinley held a conference with chairman Hahn and several members of the State Executive Committee with reference to the time and place of opening the republican state campaign.

It turns out that the report that Hamilton, Butler county, would be the place, was incorrect. The republicans of the Western Reserve have made an earnest request the campaign be opened in that stronghold of the party, and a preference has been expressed for Niles, Trumbull county, which is McKinley's birth place.

McKinley himself favors that place, both as a matter of policy and sentiment.

Although it is not definitely decided upon, the probability is that McKinley's opening speech of the campaign will be at Niles, on Saturday, August 22. The committee decided that he should speak at Mr. Gilead, August 24, at the Morrow county republican convention.

There is a probability that he will speak at Urbana, Champaign county, on September 3. In the meantime Major McKinley will fill several non-political engagements that he himself has individually accepted, among them being the following:

August 12, soldiers' reunion, Bowling Green, Wood county; August 13, farmers' picnic, Richland county; August 15, Erie County Agricultural society reunion; August 20, Pennyroyal reunion, Guernsey county. Major McKinley left on the late train to-night for Steubenville.

MILLIONS IN THE AIR.

A Postal Clerk Who Can Quit Throwing Cards.

Meriden, Conn., Aug. 1.—Frank G. Watterman and his sister, Hattie Watterman, of this city, are two of a number of heirs to an estate valued at $3,000,000, located in Portland, Me. About a hundred years ago a man named Skillings owned a large tract of land in the town of Portland, part of which he leased for 99 years. The lease expired last April, and parties who were seeking a location for the soldiers' monument in investigating the title discovered that it was still owned by the Skillings estate. The late Mrs. Moses Waterman was a granddaughter of Mrs. Skillings and the mother of Frank and Hattie Waterman. Frank is a postal clerk.

Damaged by Fire.

New York, Aug. 1.—Thirty thousand dollars damage was caused to the malt house and contents of Evard's brewery at 12 East One Hundred and Thirty-third street by fire early this morning. The fire is supposed to have been started by a spark from some foreign substance in the grinding machinery. This is the third fire in the brewery within a month.

Excitement Over the Sealing Edict.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—The steamship St. Paul from Ounalaska which arrived here last night reports intense excitement over the sealing edict. Only two sealing schooners had been seized up to July 20—British schooner F. B. Marvin and the American schooner La Ninfa. The North American Commercial company had taken 7,500 sealskins before the news of the close season reached them.

Warren Against Dixon.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 1.—Mike Haley has informed the Norfolk Virginian that he will back Tommy Warren with $1,000 to fight George Dixon, the champion bantam weight of the world, before any club that would offer the largest purse.

The money will be ready when Dixon or Tom O'Rourke signify their willingness to accept.

Bayley Hat Firm.

Newburyport, Mass., Aug. 1.—The stockholders of the embarrassed Bayley Hat company at a meeting yesterday voted to allow the directors to put the concern into insolvency, if deemed best for the interest of all concerned. The condition of affairs at present was said to be very unsatisfactory. The investigating committee has not yet reported.

Emma Eames Married.

London, Aug. 1.—Emma Eames, the American opera singer, and the son of W. W. Story, the sculptor, were married today at the registrar's office.

STREET CAR TROUBLES.

Meeting of the Men Called for To-Night,

Which Will Decide Upon Some Action.

It May Be Another Strike or It May Not, But a Volcano Is Smoldering Just the Same.

The Electric Wage Workers' union which includes the conductors and motor men of both street car companies, and the Horse Car Men's union will hold a special joint meeting at Carpenter's hall this evening to discuss several grievances that have been hanging fire since the strike.

The men claim that they have not been treated right, and there is a strong feeling among them for another strike. It is for this reason that the meeting is called for to-night, and so me immediate and decisive action will be taken. Many of the men are in favor of a strike at once, while the cooler heads among the leaders are not so anxious, but would rather bring the companies in by other means if possible.

As has been previously mentioned in the BEE, the men are dissatisfied because the companies are only paying 15 cents per hour instead of $1.80 per day, as they understood the agreement under which they returned to work. The men say they are all willing to work the full 12 hours per day and want pay for the same, and claim that the companies should keep them at work for the full time.

As the companies are now working a large portion of the men only from 9 to 11 hours per day, and consequently at 15 cents per hour they are unable to get full pay. Some of them have only been receiving $1.36.

Besides this the companies have been placing a number of spotters on the cars, and through the work of these many men have been discharged on the most trivial excuses. There is also considerable dissatisfaction with Superintendent Denman, of the Consolidated, although this is not put forth as one of their grievances.

Several of the men prominent in the street car trouble stated to a BEE that if they had been working under a different man no strike would ever have been brought about.

At the last regular meeting of the street car men's union, Messrs. Booth, Fellows, Voit and Otto were appointed a committee to wait on Mr. Lang in regard to the troubles of the men and find out from him what he intended to do.

The committee has seen Mr. Lang and will report to the union to-night. The result of the conference with Mr. Lang is not known, but the impression is that it is not satisfactory.

The committee did not wait on Mr. David Robison for the reason that he sent word through one of his officials that he was willing to pay $1.80 per day, but now he fails to come to time, and his men are more dissatisfied than ever.

Another cause of the dissatisfaction is the manner in which both companies have been replacing old men with new ones whenever possible.

It is impossible to predict what the result of the meeting to-night will be. The men are holding together, and are unanimous in their opinion that something should be done. The only differences are regarding the means to the end, but they are determined to stand together on whatever is done.

THEY ARE DESERTING BEN.

Three of Harrison's Cabinet to Resign.

The War, Interior and Attorney General Portfolios May Soon be Vacant.

Washington, Aug. 1.—It is understood here that when the senate meets next December, President Harrison will send to that body nominations of three cabinet officers to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of the secretary of war, the secretary of the interior, and the attorney general.

The gentlemen now holding these portfolios will have retired from their respective offices before the first Monday in December. Each officer will leave the cabinet with the kindest feelings for the president and will hold the esteem of the chief magistrate.

The retirement will be voluntary in each case and due solely to the desire of the retiring officer to place himself in a position to avail himself of other honors.

The secretary of war will resign to take a seat in the senate made vacant by the resignation of Senator Edmunds, of Vermont.

The secretary of the interior will resign to accept a judgeship in the new circuit court of appeals.

The attorney-general will resign for the same purpose. The tenure of the office for judges is for life, at a salary of $6,000 per year. The successors of the retiring officers are problematical.

It is thought, however, that Land Commissioner Carter will be secretary of the interior, ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire, will be secretary of war, and Solicitor General Taft, of the department of justice, from Ohio, will be attorney-general.

It is reported that Hon. Rob

MILLS, OF TEXAS, TALKS,

And He Talks With a Democratic Ring.

A Multitude of People Hear His Address.

They Don't Like What He Says on Prohibition But They Cheer His Views on Jeffersonian Principles.

New York, Aug. 1.—Prohibition park, the new Eldorado of temperance on Staten Island, was the scene of the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of Staten Islanders in the history of that rather isolated section of New York state recently.

The occasion was the reception by the managers of the park and the residents of Staten Island to the Hon. Roger Q. Mills.

Three thousand persons, among whom were many ladies, gave the popular Texas statesman a rousing reception. His speech on "The Democratic Creed" was punctuated by cheers as hearty as they were spontaneous.

It was 8:15 o'clock before Col. Chevis, representing the park management, called the assemblage to order and introduced Nicholas Muller, Jr., chairman of the Richmond county democratic committee, as chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Muller expressed his appreciation of the honor done him and said: "We are assembled to listen to the words of one of our nation's statesmen, a gentleman who has given a busy life-time to the service of his countrymen, and whose honor and integrity are above suspicion. We are here to-night to listen to the doctrine of a party that was born with the American republic; that gave us our constitution; that made our old starry flag, and that has taught us to maintain and perpetuate our glorious union."

He then introduced Mr. Mills.

The congressman was in splendid voice. He handled his subject with an easy grace that showed a thorough familiarity with its details. He dwelt at length upon government paternalism and attacked it vigorously. Among other things he said:

"The history of paternal government in all ages and among all races of men portrays it to us as a cruel and relentless step-father—robbing, oppressing and enslaving those whom the caprices of fortune have placed in its power.

"When it speaks it does not use the gentle accents of a father, but the haughty and imperious tone of a Roman centurion. It says to one go, and he goeth; to another come, and he cometh; and to the third do this, and he doeth it. It penetrates every department of private life with its intermeddling hand; it regulates religious opinions, personal habits, industrial occupations, rates of wages, places of residence, manner of living, the clothing we wear, the food we eat, the prices we pay and the markets in which we deal.

"In Europe, where kingcraft is statecraft, the monarch teaches his people to call him sire; that he is an ambassador sent from God; that he was born with boots and spurs on and they with saddles on their backs, and that it is his religious duty to ride them by the grace of God.

"This is the statecraft that in Europe has ruled states and ruined peoples, and unless stamped out of existence on this continent will accomplish the same disastrous result for us.

"The only difference between paternalism there and here is that in one case the oppression may come from one and in the other it may come from millions, but whether by one or many its pernicious results are the same; and from the creation of man to the present day, it has filled the world with more suffering than all the wars, pestilences and famines that have ever scourged mankind.

"'It is always vexing its righteous soul with others' imperfections. It is always trying to reform other people's vices; it is always casting motes out of other people's eyes.

"'Its standard of virtue and right is its own sweet will, and in its parental solicitude it is always trying to make the conduct of others conform to that unerring standard. This is not done always from sheer malevolence in the heart of those who demand that the conduct of others shall conform to their will."

The speaker then traced the history of paternalism down to the time of Jefferson and explained its dire effects on the continent of Europe. He paid a high tribute to the father of democracy and his unceasing efforts in behalf of the people. Touching the interpretation of the principles of democracy as laid down by Jefferson, Mr. Mills said:

"Samuel J. Tilden uttered the whole democratic confession of faith in one sentence when he said: 'The general government should do nothing for the state which the state can do for itself, and no government should do for the individual what he can do for himself.' Perhaps a shorter definition of democracy would be: 'Let everyone attend to his own business.' Mr. Jefferson believed that if all government was concentrated it would be a despotism, whether its power were wielded by a monarchy, an aristocracy or a democracy; that to secure liberty arbitrary power must be locked within bolts and bars; that it is not the lawless mob, bad as it is, that has destroyed liberty among all people and in all ages of the world, but organized power in government that has been the scourge of mankind.

"Over and over again he pressed upon the people that the only way to have good and safe government was 'to divide it among many, distributing to everyone exactly the functions he is competent to fill,' and make every man 'the depository of powers respecting himself.' He believed that man was the best and only judge of what would best promote his own happiness.

"Those who advocate paternal government doubtless believe they have as high regard for the welfare of the human family as those who advocate self-government, but, as Mr. Jefferson said to a distinguished Frenchman, 'You love the people as infants whom you are afraid to trust without nurses and I as adults whom I freely trust to self-government.'

"Soon after our government entered on its career it received a dreadful shock from an encounter with paternalism. The administration had fulminated its interdicts against the freedom of speech and of the press. Issue was joined at once and a tremendous battle was fought, in which the democratic party was organized and led by the author of the Declaration of Independence.

"Paternalism was routed and driven from the land, and remained in banishment for many long years. But after its long enforced absence it has returned and is again erecting its standards and organizing its forces all over the country. In the last thirty years paternalism has been extending its boundaries and liberty has been contracting hers.

"The government has been prescribing the hours of labor. If it has the right to prescribe eight hours it has the right to prescribe twenty-four. It has neither. How long a man shall work and at what business is a question for his own determination.

"The government loads down one kind of butter with a heavy tax to decrease its production and give higher profits to another kind. The government taxes people to raise money to appropriate to fairs, to buy grain for those who have lost theirs by droughts or insects. It regulates the practice of medicine and law, and it is being urged by some to prescribe rates to pay for its practitioners, and now it is demanded by a great number of good people that the government shall lend people money and help them to live. Folly could hardly go further.

"The answer of democracy to all these demands is that just government must stop at the boundary of natural right; that it must secure that against every invasion and then leave every man free to fight out the battle of life in his own way. This is the creed declared by its great founder, who saw clearly that liberty could only be preserved, enjoyed and transmitted by adhering faithfully and courageously to the principle of self government. Jefferson sleeps, but the principles he proclaimed still live.

"From the day he entered the House of Burgesses to the day he entered the narrower house on the mount of Monticello by all his acts and utterances, he dedicated this land to liberty and self-government as the means of preserving it.

"Not to liberty in some things and at certain times, but liberty in all things and at all times, and in all conditions and among all colors, races and nationalities of men; liberty from the furtherest point on the frozen zones of the North to the furtherest point of perpetual summer in the South; liberty from ocean to ocean and from earth to skies; liberty to live and liberty to pursue our own happiness in our own way; liberty to work and liberty to sell products of our labor when and where we please; liberty to buy, liberty to eat and drink and wear the things we buy or make; liberty to think and liberty to utter what we think. In one word, this land has been consecrated, purified and set apart as the home of the free and true to the precepts of our fathers, we will continue to grow in prosperity and hand down unimpaired the priceless heritage to our children and our children's children in all the generations to come."

JAYBIRDS-WOODPECKERS,

The First Judicial Killing in Their History.

William Caldwell Dies on the Scaffold Without Giving Away Any Secrets.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 1.—Wm. Caldwell has been executed here in the county jail. He died without making a statement but expressed the belief that he was going to heaven. He walked upon the scaffold without assistance and in eight minutes after the trap fell he was pronounced dead. His neck was broken.

Caldwell's death probably sealed the lips of a man who could, had he wished, have told more about the origin of the fearful strife which raged between the Jaybird and Woodpecker factions in Fort Bend county than any other person.

He was a negro far above the usual standard of his race in point of intelligence. The warfare which existed for a couple of years between these two political factions exterminated whole families and scores of men were murdered during its reign.

But Caldwell is the only person who met a judicial death on account of it. He killed Dr. J. M. Shamblen on the night of July 31, 1888. This was the first murder committed by either side of the vendetta.

Dr. Shamblen was a prominent Jaybird, or democrat. He was regarded as the leader of the opposition to those who were controlling the political destinies of Fort Bend county at that time.

Caldwell was a Woodpecker, or republican. On the night of the assassination Dr. Shamblen was sitting at a table in his home, a few miles out from Richmond, with his wife and family surrounding him. He was holding family prayer. Suddenly there was a report of a gun, and a load of buckshot crashed through a window close to which he was sitting.

The doctor dropped from the chair and expired.

No one saw Caldwell when he shot Dr. Shamblen. The evidence upon which he was arrested, tried, convicted and executed, was purely circumstantial. Even among the jaybirds of Fort Bend county it was not thought Caldwell killed Dr. Shamblen without instigation from others.

During his long confinement Caldwell gave nothing away from which the slightest clue could be gained. He maintained his innocence from the first to the last and said that had he been tried by an impartial jury he would have been acquitted.

CRAMP WILL GET IT.

The Lowest Bidder Ignored by the Government.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Secretary Tracy to-day decided not to award the contract for building cruiser No. 13 to Bath iron works, the lowest bidder.

The department has been influenced by the facts that the Bath works would have to sublet the contract for machinery, which is not considered desirable, and that it could not complete the vessel in two years as required by contract.

"Finally and most of all," Secretary Tracy says in a letter announcing his decision, "the government feels that it would be too great a risk to give the building of such a vessel as cruiser No. 13 to a new and inexperienced firm which has never yet completed a ship. Cruiser 12 and 13 are the most important ships in the navy and the most difficult to build.

"They are to have a guaranteed speed of 21 knots for four hours at sea. So far as I am aware Messrs. Cramp are the only ship-building firm anywhere which have ever undertaken to guarantee a speed of 21 knots an hour for four hours in the open sea. The statute provides 'that the contract shall be let to the lowest and best responsible bidder or bidders.' The Messrs. Cramp having finally consented to reduce their bid $55,000, I have no doubt that my duty under the statute requires me to award the contract for cruiser No. 13 at $2,690,000."

COL. HARPER TALKS.

What He Says on the Evils of the Day.

Four Hundred Statesmen to Take Part in the Battle to Down Monopoly.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Col. Jesse Harper, the farmer statesman of Illinois, was seen by a reporter while here and the colonel spoke freely and emphatically upon the attitude and possibilities of the people's party, especially in Ohio and Iowa.

Said he, "The people of Ohio are soon to witness the most aggressive campaign in this state against John Sherman and Bill McKinley that ever took place in any state and at any time in the political history of this country." The great cyclone which struck Kansas last fall and wiped out of existence the $2,000 standing republican majority and buried Ingalls out of sight, is going to be doubly duplicated in Ohio this fall, with the result that not enough of Shermanism or McKinleyism will be left to make a decent funeral.

"Why," said he, "there will be a perfect avalanche of over four hundred people's party speakers strike this state the first of October, and meetings will be held in every ward and school district in the state to the end of the campaign, and it will be found that in the last two weeks of the struggle the republicans will not be able to get a corporal's guard to attend their meetings, and they will cut no figure in the result of the election. The same kind of a campaign will be fought in Iowa with scarcely less vigor and with like results."

When asked what attitude the people's party would take in regard to the democratic party the colonel replied:

"We have no time to fight, neither will we indorse a party which is to some extent friendly to our measures, but our whole individual efforts will be devoted to defeating those who are responsible for the class legislation which has robbed and enslaved the wealth producers of this country and built up in America a plutocracy and a government by and for the few."

In answer to the question Col. Harper said:

"I have been in Ohio since the 20th of the month and spoken at Cincinnati, Cleveland, Washington C. H., Pomeroy, New Philadelphia, Akron, Springfield and other places and always to big crowds, and to-morrow I am to talk at London, Madison county, at a monster farmers' union picnic, and the day following I will address a farmers' union meeting at Granville, Licking county."

TREASURY STATEMENT.

Decrease in the Public Debt for the Month of July.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The treasury surplus to-day aggregates $57,018,504, of which amount $20,578,113 is in depository banks, $19,311,755 is subsidiary coin, and $360,277 is in minor coin and fractional currency.

The reduction in the public debt during July, treasury officials estimate, will be about $4,500,000. Custom receipts during the month will aggregate about $15,500,000, internal revenue receipts about $14,500,000, and miscellaneous receipts about $4,000,000.

This with $5,500,000 of repayments will swell the receipts of the month to $40,000,000, against which there will be $35,500,000 of expenditures, including $13,600,000 for pensions.

This data points to an increase in treasury cash of about $4,500,000 since July 1, or the equivalent of a reduction of the debt to that amount.

Since July 21, when the first shipment was made, the treasury department has shipped about $2,500,000 in small notes, (fives, tens and twenties,) to Chicago and Cincinnati. This is the beginning of the shipment west of money to meet the usual demand to move crops in the autumn.

INDIANA ALLIANCE.

Plan of the Organization Being Perfected.

Committees Appointed and Preparations Made for an Aggressive Campaign

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—The people's party of Indiana, organized one year ago, held a meeting here for the purpose of strengthening the organization. Nearly all the counties in the state were represented.

The old state central committee was continued in existence and a sub-state committee named, composed of three members of this committee to thoroughly organize the party in their respective localities.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the establishment of a lecture bureau in this city, which will furnish speakers to the various counties when wanted.

A number of speeches were made in which the old parties were denounced. The American Non-Conformist, one of the most powerful organs of the alliance in Kansas, will be removed to this city in September.

Adulterating.

Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., having noted the want of a strictly pure and first-class wine, has for the past 34 years devoted his time and capital to raising the Oporto Grape. He has been eminently successful, the indorsements which his Port Grape Wine, Claret and Brandy have received testify.

CHILIAN AFFAIRS.

The Land Force and the Naval Force United.

The Insurgents Have Changed Their Headquarters from Iqueque to Caplapo.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The Chilian minister here received two telegrams today, one from Paris dated July 31, to the effect that the cruiser Presidente Pinto, of the Chilian navy, stranded when leaving Toulon and was floated without having suffered any injuries. The cruiser will leave immediately for Chili. The Chilian government has sent a complete crew of sailors to meet the cruiser, with which she will continue her voyage to the Pacific.

The other telegram, dated Lisbon, says that the cruiser Presidente Errazuriz, well-manned and provisioned, left Lisbon for Chili. The intrigues and false news of the insurgents, says the dispatch, have not been able to prevent her going. She has 200 Chilian sailors on board and the few European volunteers will remain at a port of the Atlantic, where the rest of the crew awaits the cruiser.

A private dispatch received here today from Coquimbo states that the Chilian insurgent troops have refused to leave the coast of Huasco and separate themselves from the protection of the guns of the insurgent navy.

The insurgent directory not feeling safe at Iqueque, have changed their residence to Caplapo, from whence they can easily escape by way of the Argentine republic. The Esmeralda and the Aconcagua have pretended to seize a cargo of flour from an English ship, to provide the insurgent army, which is very short of provisions.

In the Circuit Courts of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western division, and for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, and for the Eastern District of Michigan, and for the Western District of Michigan, Southern Division. In equity.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 5, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered in the above entitled cause on July 1, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, entered in the above entitled cause on June 29, 1891, and of a decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Western District of Michigan, Southern Division, entered in the above entitled cause on June 30, 1891, we, Benjamin F. Wade and Hiram F. Carleton, the Special Masters designated by said decrees, will sell without appraisement, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, in the United States Court room, in the City of Toledo, County of Lucas, and state of Ohio, at three o'clock p. m. on the 6th day of October, 1891, the mortgaged premises and property mentioned in said decree, and ther by directed to be sold. The same will be sold in the manner and upon the terms hereinafter stated, viz.:

1. Said Special Masters will offer for sale separately that portion of the property of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad company known as the Central Division, being the property described in the first mortgage of the Cincinnati, Van Wert & Michigan Railroad company, dated April 14, 1881, together with the proportion of equipment, material and supplies appertaining to such Division which, upon the reference ordered in said decrees, shall be decreed by the court to properly belong to the same, and to be covered by said mortgage. Said property will be offered for sale as an entirety, without appraisement or redemption. No bid will be accepted therefor from any bidder for a sum less than $1500 00, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by the Special Masters, place in their hands, or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the court, the sum of $15,000 in cash, or first morgage bonds of said Cincinnati, Van Wert & Michigan Railroad company to the amount of $100,000 of principal. 2. Said Special Masters will offer for sale separately the property covered by and embraced in the consolidated mortgage of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad company, dated December 1, 1886, excluding the said Central Division above described, together with the proportion of equipment, material and supplies appertaining to the same which, upon the reference ordered in said decrees, shall be decreed by the court to properly belong to the same, and to be covered by said Consolidated Mortgage. Said property (excluding the said Central Division) will be sold as an entirety, without appraisement or redemption. No bid will be accepted therefor from any bidder for a sum less than $400,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by the Special Masters, place in their hands, or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the Court, the sum of $25,000 in cash or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds to the amount of $250,000 of principal.

The said Special Masters will use their discretions in respect to which separate parcel shall be first offered for sale.

After having offered said properties for sale separately, as foresaid, said Special Masters will then offer the entire property covered by said Consolidated Mortgage, including the said Central Division, for sale as one parcel, without appraisement or redemption, and if the highest bid received by them for the same shall exceed the aggregate amount of the several highest bids for the two parcels offered separately, then the whole will be struck off and sold as an entirety to the person making such bid for the whole. No bid for said property as an entirety will be accepted from any bidder for a sum less than $900,000, nor from any bidder who shall not, if requested by said Special Masters, place in their hands or deposit with them, as a pledge that he will make good his bid, if accepted by the court, the sum of $40,000 in cash, or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, or First Mortgage Bonds, or Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, or both, of the total par value of $50,000 of principal. The purchaser or purchasers at such sale may, if he or they see fit, be subrogated to the rights of Wasion H Brown, Receiver, under a certain agreement between said Receiver and the Haskell & Barker Car Company, dated January 18, 1890, for purchase of equipment, upon assuming his liabilities under the same.

Of the price for which said properties shall be sold, there shall be paid in cash, at the time of the sale, a sum equal to the amount of cash deposit hereinbefore required, and at the same time, and from time to time thereafter, such further portions of said purchase price as the Court may direct, and the Court reserves the right to reject any bid, and to take and to sell said premises and property, upon failure of any purchaser for twenty days to comply with any order of the Court requiring payment. The balance of the purchase price required to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash, or the purchaser may satisfy and make good said balance of his bid, in whole or in part, by paying over the outstanding First Mortgage Bonds or coupons, or either, the outstanding Income Bonds, and the outstanding Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, and overdue coupons, or either, at such price or value as shall be equitable to the amount that the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon, in case the entire purchase price were paid in cash. The foregoing provisions shall be applicable, whether the said properties be sold in separate parcel, or as a unit. If any bid shall be accepted by the court, and the person making the same shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and all orders of the court with respect thereto, the sum deposited by the bidder shall be forfeited, and shall be applied as the court may direct.

Reference is hereby made to said decrees for a more specific description of the mortgaged property therein ordered to be sold, and for further particulars of the terms and conditions of sale.

THERE IS A LACK OF CARS

In Which to Move the People Who Travel.

Among the Railroads—Depot at Walbridge Burned—Cinders Along the Line.

As the date of the Detroit excursion draws nearer the railroad companies realize how light they are equipped and how utterly is their inability to accommodate the public in an emergency, such as the present one. There is not a line running into Toledo but what will utilize all of its own equipment to a single car, and all it can beg, borrow or steal.

This great rush and wholesale demand for equippage is due to the short time in which the business is to be handled.

Arbitration Drawing to a Close.

The Ann Arbor board of arbitration met yesterday afternoon, and Manager Ashley made another argument. He endeavored to explain his former statements. The subject was then generally discussed. Messrs. Hamilton, King and Melvin are in session to-day and some conclusion will probably be arrived at.

Walbridge Depot Burned.

The depot at the junction of the C., H. V. & T. and Pennsylvania at Walbridge, burned down last night. It is reported that the fire was caused by the operator going to sleep, and leaving his lamp too close to a string of orders suspended from a hook.

Rates Revised.

The Tiffin and Fostoria committees of the Central Traffic association met in Sandusky yesterday. The class rates out of Fostoria and Tiffin, between Akron and Cleveland were revised. This action was taken on account of the opening of the B. & O. from Chicago Junction to Akron.

Niagara Excursion Cancelled.

The general passenger agent of the Wabash has issued a circular to all ticket agents cancelling the Niagara excursion advertised for August 11.

In stating the cause for this action, it was deemed advisable by the management, owing to the heavy travel at present induced by the exceedingly low rates to the G. A. R. encampment at Detroit.

Homeseekers' Excursion.

The Trans-Missouri Passenger association has authorized a rate of one fare and a third for the round trip for a series of three homeseekers' excursions, dated August 25, September 15 and 29. The Central Traffic association will probably make a similar rate.

Cinders.

All local lines have made arrangements to run through trains to Detroit.

C. S. Crane, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash, is in the city.

The T. & O. C. has chartered the Idlewild to handle its G. A. R. business from Toledo to Detroit.

C. C. Brew, local agent of the Empire freight line, went to Chicago to-day, where he will spend Sunday.

W. H. Lovekin, of the superintendent's office of the T. & O. C., with his wife, will spend Sunday at Napoleon.

S. F. L. Dean has been appointed agent of the C., H. V. & T. at Winona Furnace, vice A. C. Pierce resigned.

The Roadmasters' association will hold its ninth annual convention in Minneapolis, convening at the West hotel, September 10.

D. B. Robinson, general manager of the Atlantic & Pacific division of the Santa Fe, will assume the management of the San Antonia & Arkansas pass.

The Queen & Crescent will establish a freight agency at Pittsburg, September 1. C. A. Egley, traveling freight agent, will probably be placed in charge.

The management of the Wisconsin Central lines has issued a circular announcing the opening of a branch line, 22 miles long, from Marsh, Wis., to Greenwood, Wis.

The Toledo, Columbus and Cincinnati has issued a new time table to go into effect August 2. Trains leave Toledo at 7:20 and 10:30 a. m. and 4:20 p. m., Sunday, 6 p. m.

On August 1 J. S. Timpson assumes the duties of general eastern passenger agent of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City road at Buffalo. Mr. Timpson held a similar position with the Big Four.

Statistics of the interstate commerce commission show just 30,000 locomotives in the United States, which cost aggregates $450,000,000. If connected they would make a solid train 300 miles long. There is a locomotive to every five miles of railroad track.

The New Orleans & Gulf railroad, running from New Orleans to a point on Shell Beach, which has been in the hands of a receiver for some time, was sold yesterday for $1,200,000. The purchase was made for the English holders of the first mortgage bonds. It was reported sometime ago that the road had been purchased by the Illinois Central, but this now proves to have been an error.

FAILED TO MATERIALIZE.

The People's Party Score a Fall Down.

Only Twenty Persons Present at Tiffin and the Convention Postponed.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 1.—(Special)—The much heralded county convention of the people's party met at the city hall to-day.

There were but 20 persons present, including the reporters and janitor.

They decided to postpone the nomination of a county ticket until August 29.

Fourteen delegates to the Springfield convention were chosen.

The people's party in Seneca county is wholly an imaginary quantity.

Plenty of Money.

New York, Aug. 1.—Austin Gibbons, the Paterson pugilist, who is matched to fight Jack McAuliffe for the light weight championship announced yesterday that unless the Granite club put up $250 for his training expenses he would declare off his match. Upon learning of this Dick Roche sent Gibbons the following message:

"Club's offer four thousand purse goes. Guarantee you $250 for training expenses. You can get money any time."

Mysteriously Missing.

New York, Aug. 1.—Henry Ogden, a wealthy merchant doing business in Franklin street, New York, and owning a cottage at Monmouth Beach, is missing.

He was last seen on Wednesday, on the steamer Monmouth, during a heavy shower, as she was nearing Sandy Hook. It is feared he fell overboard.

WILL HAVE SOMETHING LEFT

William R. Foster Stole a Big Amount of Money.

Since Then He Has Had $200,000 Left to Him and Will Have to Square Up His Account.

New York, Aug. 1.—Nearly three years ago William R. Foster, a lawyer of this city, stole $193,000 from the gratuity fund of the produce exchange and fled to Spain.

There is no extradition treaty with Spain under which his arrest could be demanded, but it is probable that Foster will be compelled to make good the stolen money from the proceeds of a legacy of $200,000 which he has inherited from the estate of his father.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Produce Exchange yesterday it was resolved to send a lawyer with a detective to see Foster at his retreat in Spain. He is said to be willing to execute a transfer of some of his property because he desires to return to this country. If matters can be arranged so that there will be no criminal prosecution he will probably return.

ENDED LAST NIGHT.

The Good Templars' Convention—Some Who Were Present.

The last session of the I. O. G. T. was held yesterday afternoon, several resolutions were submitted to the committee for future consideration and two resolutions were passed.

Resolutions of condolence with Prof. Irish, of Hicksville, on the death of his wife last week were passed.

A resolution to be presented to the grand lodge to establish a district fund for lectures was passed.

A change in some of the by-laws was referred to the committee on laws.

Among the most prominent in attendance at the twelfth quarterly meeting just closed were: L. R. Case, Chief Templar, and Mrs. Conant, lodge deputy, of Bowling Green; E. R. Dean, Chief Templar-elect, of North Baltimore; Miss Nettie Keil and Claton Hobart of Pemberville; Mrs. Bell Roberts, superintendent of Juvenile Temple of Walbridge; Mary H. Van Blarcum, formerly grand lodge lecturer of West Milligrove; Miss Divers, superintendent of juveniles of Prairie Depot; Miss Zaenge, lodge deputy of Perrysburg; Miss Jessie Franc, recording secretary, and Alvie Sands, lodge marshal of Munger; H. F. Van Fleet, district treasurer, and Mrs. Schnider district deputy marshal of Waterville; Miss Lizzie Eskly, Chief Templar of Milton Centre.

The session adjourned at 4 p. m. to meet at North Baltimore the 31st of next October.

UNDOUBTEDLY TRUE.

Noble Has Handed in His Resignation.

Denials from Headquarters Don't Satisfy the People Who are on the Inside.

New York, Aug. 1.—Collector Fassett, who has just returned from a visit to President Harrison at Cape May, says the reported resignation of Secretary Noble was vigorously denied at the presidential cottage. "I heard Private Secretary Halford tell several newspaper correspondents," said Mr. Fassett, "that not only had the secretary not resigned, but that he knew nothing as to the statement that Gen. Noble proposed to leave the cabinet."

The Sun's Washington dispatch in discussing the same subject, says that notwithstanding the denials from Cape May and from department officials that Secretary Noble has tendered his resignation to the president, there is the best authority for saying that the secretary has notified the president that he desires to retire from the cabinet.

The resignation was not made in the usual formal way to be acted on at once but the president has been asked by Gen. Noble to retire him and Mr. Harrison has promised to do so as soon as he can look about him and find the proper person to place at the head of the interior department.

TO GO TO LIBERIA.

A Movement to Take the Negroes to Africa

Washington, Aug. 1.—A movement of considerable magnitude is now on foot to arrange for the deportation of the negroes of the southern states to Liberia. Capt. John Murray and Mr. W. B. Lewis, representing Elder, Dempsey & Co., of Liverpool, owners of an important line of steamships, have been at Chamberlins for some days in consultation with Mr. Benjamin Gaston, the authorized agent of the Liberian Emigration company.

The negotiations between them have been carried to a successful point, and an agreement has been reached whereby a fleet will be at the disposal of the colored people. Ships will sail at frequent intervals from southern ports direct to the African coast and it is believed that the first contingent will be ready to start out inside of two months. One of the company's vessels is now at Baltimore.

Capt. Murray talks enthusiastically of the good to accrue to the negroes by immigration to Liberia.

WILL THEY EVER CEASE?

Another Frightful Railroad Wreck.

The Rails Spread and a Number of Passengers are Seriously and Fatally Injured.

Bellaire, O., Aug. 1.—Another wreck has been added to the late list of railroad accidents in Ohio. At about 10 o'clock yesterday morning passenger train No. 4, on Bellaire, Zanesville & Cincinnati Narrow Gauge Railroad, left the track three miles south of Bellaire, two cars being overturned and dragged some distance by the engine.

There were 70 passengers on the train, and the two cars that turned over into the ditch were crowded with well-known people of this section. When they left the track some one cried out that everybody should cling to his seat, but the shock was so awful that many were hurled from one side to the other, those not badly injured being terribly shaken up.

Assistance was soon at hand from other passengers and the train men, and when all were finally taken out of the wrecked cars it was found that 14 people had been injured, four of them seriously, and one fatally.

The train was running at the least calculation at the rate of 35 miles an hour, and as it reached a curve the cars were noticed to sway violently and unheeding the cries for passengers to keep their seats, a rush was made for the doors. Many of the frightened passengers had reached the platform when the cars jumped the rails, and when they turned over in another moment, these were hurled over in the ditch in an indiscriminate mass of men, women and children, the latter shrieking fearfully as they went down. The list of the injured is as follows:

John Morris, baggage-master, hurt internally, badly bruised and will probably die.

Charles M'Elroy, leg broken and otherwise bruised.

William M'Elroy, head hurt and internal injuries.

John Irwin, of Bethel, O., hand crushed and scalp injured.

G. P. Wilcox, of York, Pa., head badly injured.

In addition to these there were many badly bruised, but able to take care of themselves, and this afternoon they went on to their several destinations. Physicians were telegraphed for from Wheeling and Bellaire, and were soon on the ground doing everything possible for those most severely injured. Morris, the baggage master, had been cooped up in his car, and when it left the track he was thrown violently against the sides, being injured by the miscellaneous baggage heaped upon him. To-night all are reported to be in a fair way of recovery, with this exception.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

The case of the City of Toledo for the use of Loeb & Shuitz, against E. O. King will be heard in Justice Austin's court this afternoon.

The Railroad Guide for August is out, containing correct time tables and other valuable information of all the railroads in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

In Justice Parker's court this morning two cases were settled. Dr. S. S. Parker against Mrs. Nellie B. Lancto, and J. Steinman & Bros. against Adolph Major. Judgements for the plaintiffs being given in both cases.

Justice Austin disposed of six cases in his court this morning: Bolten against the Toledo & Ann Arbor, settled; Taomas against Broderick, judgment for plaintiff; Nettleton against Lasky, continued to August 4; Squires against Mrs. Joseph Simard, settled; J. J. Fo—man against Lasky, continued to August 4; Campbell against Frey, judgment for plaintiff.

Dangerous Amusement.

Since the asphalt pavement has been completed on Superior street, bicyclers have discovered that it was the finishing touch to an excellent coasting plane, and they have not been slow to take advantage of the opportunity afforded. Numbers of them may be seen every night whizzing down Madison, thence into Superior. This is no doubt great sport for the man on the wheel, but it is very dangerous to pedestrians, and some one will be seriously injured if the practice continues.

The Dead Body Forwarded to Hamilton.

After several telegrams had been sent to Hamilton, Canada, by the coroner, inquiring for friends or relatives of Quinn, the murdered man, word was finally sent back here from his brother to prepare the body and forward it to Hamilton.

Undertaker Cauldwell dressed Quinn in a plain shroud and placed him in a neat plain coffin, and this afternoon they went on to their several destinations. Physicians were telegraphed for from Wheeling and Bellaire, and were soon on the ground doing everything possible for those most severely injured. Morris, the baggage master, had been cooped up in his car, and when it left the track he was thrown violently against the sides, being injured by the miscellaneous baggage heaped upon him. To-night all are reported to be in a fair way of recovery, with this exception.

To-Morrow's Dedication Out Monroe Street.

The Methodist congregation at Auburndale have at last completed their new structure, rendered necessary because of the destruction of the old one by fire last winter. Arrangements have been made for its dedication to-morrow, Rev. Smiley, assisting Rev. T. L. Wiltsie will preach, aided by Presiding Elder Pope and the pastor, Rev. J. W. Miller, in the services. In the afternoon the local Methodist pastors will attend the meeting at 3:30, and will talk briefly. Rev. P. P. Pope will preach at night. The church is one of the cosiest in the Central Ohio conference.

Birthday Party Out Dorr Street.

Last evening between thirty and forty guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, on Dorr street, to celebrate the seventeenth anniversary of the birth of their daughter Madge. The entire lawn was beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns and colored lights. Croquett and other out-door sports were enjoyed during the early portion of the evening, after which a splendid repast was served. The young people continued their enjoyment in the house until the wee small hours were approaching, when they bade Miss Madge a pleasant good morning and wished her many more bright and happy birthdays. Several beautiful presents were left for the young lady.

The C. C. C. Will Remain With Bronson.

The Central Chandelier company, after a consultation last evening, decided to remain in the present building on Summit street. It was found that it would require at least 30 days to get the Smead building in readiness, and besides Mr. Bronson has serious objections to their moving. Mr. Bronson, by the way, has obtained all the losses caused by the recent fire, and is at work on the roofing of the building. He, however, demands $800 before he will make any interior repairs. The Central Chandelier company at present is operating at the best advantage possible under the circumstances. One section is at work in Shaw & Kendall's foundry and the other section in the building on Summit street.

A Soldier With a Record.

Among the members of Ransom Post, G. A. R., who were in the city this morning is Col. J. O. Churchill, collector of the port of St. Louis, and a man with a wonderful war record and probably one of the most wounded men that ever recovered. At Fort Donelson he was shot through both thighs and lay on the battle field unconscious for 22 hours. When picked up he was frozen stiff and fast to the ground so that it was necessary to cut his clothes off. He was then sent on a transport to St. Louis and it was two weeks before his terrible wounds were dressed. His seige in the hospital was a long one and when he recovered his hair had turned white. Col. Churchill is a genial gentleman and a very popular man in St. Louis. He was made collector of that port without any opposition whatever, and it is said that his petition from the citizens asking the president to appoint him to the office was the largest ever sent in for any appointment.

Col. Reynolds' Steamship Line.

The contemplated steamship line which has been taken hold of by Col. S. C. Reynolds, of this city, has awakened interest in various parts of the country. Last evening's Detroit News has the following concerning the project:

"Toledo has already seen the immense possibilities opened by the successful voyage of the whaleback steamer, Charles Wetmore, from Duluth, Minn., to Liverpool, with a cargo of grain. A company has been formed with $2,500,000 capital, and Col. Reynolds, a Toledo millionaire grain dealer, as president, to operate a line of steamers between Toledo and Liverpool. The vessels will carry flour and grain from Toledo, and will bring back not only the ordinary imports that now come by the way of New York, but also influences that will do more to make Toledo expand than anything else that has happened to it since Toledo became a grain market. It is prompt action upon sound premises that brings the money nowadays, and if Detroit expects to gain any profit and prestige from traffic with the old world, it is time somebody was moving. Otherwise Detroit will only be known as a way station for the ocean steamer lines that will come this way.

THE CORONER'S VERDICT.

Some Damaging Testimony Against Willey.

Excitement in Defiance Over the Sad Affair Still at the Highest Pitch.

Defiance, Aug. 1.—(Special)—The excitement in the Willey-Krotz tragedy still continues. Willey passed a sleepless night at the jail, and still refuses to make a statement for publication, acting under the advice of his attorneys.

Harris and Cameron and John W Winn have been retained to defend and Prosecutor Woods has engaged Hill and Hubbard to assist in the prosecution.

Coroner Westrick held an inquest yesterday afternoon. Eight witnesses were examined. The only evidence adduced which throws any new light on the matter was that of J. J. Lucas, a carpenter, who said Willey had produced a revolver in his presence Wednesday, telling him that Krotz had attacked him on several occasions and that he was now prepared for Krotz, and if he attempted to assault him he would shoot him.

The testimony of Rev. A. L. Jordan, who knows more about the unfortunate affair than any other person except Wiley, was substantially the same as published in yesterday's BEE.

Drs. Stevens and Powell made a statement in regard to the post mortem. The coroner rendered his verdict this morning, which is substantially as follows:

"After having examined the body and hearing the evidence adduced I do find that Geo. W. Krotz came to his death by a pistol shot wound fired by one Harry V. Willey, with intent to murder and kill said Geo. W. Krotz."

The preliminary hearing is being held before 'Squire Hunter, this afternoon, in the court room.

Willey was brought into court at 9:30 by the sheriff, looking pale and haggard. It is evident that his brief confinement is telling heavily on him.

The affidavit charging him with wilful murder was read to him and when asked to plead he plead not guilty.

The court room is crowded to suffocation by the curious eager to get a glimpse of the prisoner and catch every word the witnesses utter.

The state witnesses are being examined who gave testimony before the coroner and it is expected the testimony will be sufficient to bind him over for murder in the first degree.

Willey's wife lies at the house prostrated and under the care of physicians. Her life is dispaired of.

The funeral of Krotz will take place tomorrow at the English Catholic church. Rev. M. P. Kinkaid will officiate.

The National union organization, of which he is a member, will attend in a body.

He has $2,000 life insurance in this order.

It is thought by those in a position to know that Willey's attorneys will offer a plea of insanity as a defense as his friends say he has been acting strangely since he received a blow on the head a short time ago, rendering him senseless for several hours.

CAUGHT IN A MACHINE.

An Accident Which May Prove Fatal.

Fostoria, Aug. 1.—(Special)—Last evening at Arcadia, seven miles west of this city, while Low Orth was standing on a road engine in motion, the board on which he stood broke and his foot got tangled in the machinery, crushing the bone and flesh so that amputation of one foot was necessary.

The other foot may have to be amputated, and he may not survive the operation.

SPLENDID CROPS.

An Average of 20 Bushels per Acre in North Dakota.

The Acreage Has Been Increased Nearly 40,000 Acres—Good News for Buyers.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 1.—The weather during the past week has been such as brings joy to the heart of the farmer. The days have been warm and the nights cool and prospects were never brighter.

A continuance of such weather will make the wheat yield of 1891 the banner yield in the history of North Dakota.

The weekly reports from points on the various railway lines estimate the yield at from 22 to 35 bushels per acre, but this is probably an optimistic view and an average of 20 bushels will probably be nearer the correct figure. This will be an increase of between eight and nine bushels per acre as compared with last year.

The acreage also has been increased and is estimated at about 290,000 as against 253,287 acres in 1890. Other crops are showing splendidly, and an especially large yield of oats is expected.

Saratoga Races.

Fourth race, 1¼ miles: Abi 1st 1; Carroll 2; Kinsceem 3. Time 2:15.

Powder In a Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1.—The Alabama Great Southern railway station was burned early this morning, and 50 kegs of powder stored there exploded, damaging many buildings. The fire was incendiary.

Six Persons Killed.

Coruuna, Aug. 1.—An explosion in a fireworks factory in this city killed six persons and injured others. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Closed the Bank.

London, Aug. 1.—Just ce Chitty to-day made the winding up order in the case of the English bank of the River Plate which recently suspended.

Astronomers tell us that the term "nixeu" applied to the stars is a mistake, for it is now known that there is not a fixed star in the heavens, and probably no such condition as absolute rest in the universe. All the stars are in motion, and some of them are moving at the rate of 250,000 miles an hour, or, more than the the velocity of our earth on its orbit. It might be thought that this constant motion would produce continual changes in the stellar relations and alter the face of the heavens every few hours. But the vast distances at which the stars are set from us destroy the visual effect of their motion and preserve the unchanging aspect of the heavens. None of the constellations have suffered a dislocation in 3,000 years. Sirius, Aroturus and the Pleiades are still in their places. Although the stars in Orion have ever been in motion, each without relation to any other, the mighty figure is as it appeared to the man of Uz 40 centuries ago.

A seamless steel boat made from one piece of metal by hydraulic pressure promises to be very desirable. It will last a great while and cannot leak.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Dennison B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., Aug. 1.

London wheat market at opening slow. Corn nothing offering. Wheat and corn passage quiet. Holiday in Liverpool.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,097,480 bu, compared with 452,725 bu on the same day last year.

Chicago Tribune: Rye—For the first time in some days there was a moderate out-inspection of rye and reported further inquiry looking toward export business. George Clark was a buyer of cash lots, and it is expected that shipping houses will start two cargoes this week, with vessel room taken for 60,000 bu now loading.

Milwaukee wired that there had been a sale of 24,000 bu No. 2 red wheat there for direct export, and that their elevators now contains but 5,000 bu of that grade.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points are 644,755 bu in excess of the corresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipts of wheat this week from eight principal western points are 4,185,000 bu in excess of the corresponding week in 1890. Receipts of corn are 193,000 bu, and of oats 588,000 bu less than in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were in flour and wheat equal 350,000 bu of wheat.

Reports of English grain markets to-day are unimportant. Liverpool has a holiday.

The New York bank statement herein is not a very encouraging one for money borrowers.

Farmers' Alliances.

We have a copy of the article from "The State," at St. Paul, addressed to farmers. It is long to print, but the paper contains some sharp reasoning which no man can gainsay. Whether it will affect farmers' deliveries to a great extent cannot now be determined.

Farmers' Deliveries

within the above article or some other influence has effected a check in farmers' deliveries of wheat in Indiana and Illinois. That is the character of the letters received here.

G. A. R. Movement.

The movement of the old soldiers and new, is likely to be so large as to stop some of the freight trains for a day or two and reduce receipts. We know of one road on which freight will be discontinued.

The wheat markets of this country have had another dull day in which the fluctuations have favored buyers, but the closing prices are very near those of yesterday.

A great effort is make daily to break down the corn market, but it has been maintained to-day and closes a shade better east and west.

In New York August wheat closed at 97¼c, a loss of ⅝c; September at 9.1½c, a loss of ⅝c. August corn closed at 67⅜c, a gain of ⅛c; September at 65¼c, a gain of ⅛c. In Chicago August wheat closed at 87¼c, a loss of ⅛c; September at 87c, a loss of ¼c. August corn at 50¼c, a gain of ⅛c; September at 57⅞, a gain of ⅛c.

In Toledo.—The business in wheat for future delivery has been very light, and more so than on any day since wheat began to move freely. There was no wheat pressing for sale and prices have not changed much, but it has been a dull Saturday, and that about covers it. The August future opened at 90c, and closed at 90¼c steady; September sold at 90⅝@90¾c and closed at 90½c, a loss of ⅜; December sold at 93c to 93¾c and 93¾c, and closed at 93⅞c, a loss of ¼.

Cash wheat was in good request, with sales of 150,000 bu. Prices are a shade lower. No. 2 soft sold at 90¾@90⅝c, and to 90¾c, closing at 9 ¾, a loss of ⅛; No. 3 soft at 89½c; No. 4 soft at 86. Rejected No. 1 at 85; No. 1 white at 91½; No. 2 white at 90; No. 2 red and white at 89¾c.

Corn—Nothing doing; No. 2, 64; No. 3, 63c.

Oats—No. 2 at 30@29¾c; rejected at 20c; No. 2 white at 34c.

Rye—No. 2 at 73½@73¾c; No. 3 at 70¾c.

The state board of equalization was in session yesterday, but one member of the board was not holding down his seat. Foster Warren still awaits his certificate of election.

The Chicago Journal says Quay of Pennsylvania "is an honest man—as honest as any man in public life." The Journal must be of the same political unfaith as the late senator from Kansas, and believe with him that politics and the decalogue are widely sundered.

Col. Jesse L. Harper, the veteran greenbacker of Illinois, and who likes to be spoken of as "the man who nominated Abraham Lincoln in 1860," is now, as might be expected, a people's party man. He has lately been doing a little speechmaking in this state, and he sums up his view of things here by announcing that when the campaign is over "not enough of Shermanism or McKinleyism will be left to make a decent funeral."

The Washington breezes blow westward stories of the resignation of three cabinet officers: The secretary of war, who wants to be senator from Vermont; the secretary of the interior and attorney-general, who want to be appointed judges. But never a whispering breeze tells the same story for the postmaster-general. Mr. Wanamaker holds the only high public position he will ever disgrace, and "the business man of the cabinet" knows how to hold on to a good thing.

The announcement in the Bee that Col. S. C. Reynolds has organized a powerful company to operate a trans-Atlantic line of steamers, with Toledo as its starting point, is the talk of business circles here and elsewhere. The advantage of Toledo as the gathering center of the grain trade of an immense fertile belt is apparent and the genius that inspired the enterprise is capable of making it a magnificent commercial success. Col. Reynolds is one of the best business men in the country, and his own ample resources, coupled with the commanding influence he exerts in the money centers, assures the complete success of this enterprise, which combines dash and practical business. Toledo can congratulate itself that Col. Reynolds is one of us.

The republican small caliber politicians who are inclined to think the Hyatt steal was a real cute trick on Foster Warren and the democrats, will discover they have stirred up a large hornet's nest. Here are three facts which the farmers are considering:

The Lucas county appraisers increased the valuation of real estate in Lucas county.

The republican board of commissioners made an additional increase.

The state board of equalization, in which board Hyatt occupied a stolen seat, made a further increase of twenty per cent.

The republican party is wholly to blame for this outrage upon the farmers of Lucas county.

The cute republican bosses of Toledo can now see what they have done. They stole Foster Warren's office, gave it to a republican and Lucas county had no defender against the excessive increase in the valuation of farm lands.

The farmers thoroughly understand this steal, and they are fully aware of the part taken by the republicans who occupy the offices in the court house. Look out for an avalanche of votes this fall that will bury the republican ticket out of sight.

Anent the change in the New York collectorship, the Chicago Herald reviews some of the political fatalities connected with the office, and says:

Every republican president from Abraham Lincoln to Benjamin Harrison has had his fingers burned therein more or less severely. Quarrels over the patronage of that institution cost Mr. Lincoln some of his most powerful friends. General Grant's wide open policy under Tom Murphy's regime scandalized the administration and the country. Mr. Hayes incurred the hostility of the Arthur faction by his efforts at reform, and poor Garfield lost his life as a result of his refusal to placate the local bosses who wished to run that institution as they pleased. Mr. Arthur, in turn, when by a singular fortune he became president, was confronted during his entire administration by the enemies that he had made as a stalwart New York collector and his attempts at a renomination were rendered futile by their efforts.

It is not so clear that President Harrison has made a mistake, so far as his personal interests are concerned, in forcing Erhardt's resignation and appointing Fassett to the office. Both are spoilsmen and the latter is expected to run the machine for Harrison faithfully. "The person in private life" of whose interference Collector Erhardt complained, is supposed to be Boss Platt. The inference is that Platt's influence is recognized at the white house, and that Fassett's appointment is satisfactory to him. Some hundred clerks have been discharged from the collector's office on the grounds of economy. Before the presidential campaign is opened it will be easy to fill these places again with Harrison's henchmen. It is true, none the less, the New York customs house is always loaded, and may damage a president any time.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION.

Can that system of higher education known as university extension be utilized in America? is a question of to-day. To an extent the system is already on trial in this country, and so far as tried the results encourage its advocates. They also awaken a more general interest in and discussion of the subject, which in turn are likely to further popularize the system.

The intention of the system is to give men and women of any age, who have the groundwork of our common and high school education to build upon, an opportunity to acquire further knowledge by a systematic course of study, and to give them the advantage of receiving, as far as possible, the training of our universities, which they may by circumstances be debarred from ever attending. The usual method is for a group of students to be formed, courses of study to be laid out, and the lines of reading and investigation are then pursued under the direction of university professors. By arrangement with whatever university is chosen, some of its professors or other qualified persons are sent at stated times to meet with the school of students, direct their studies, examine them therein, and lecture upon the topics under investigation. This is perhaps a sufficient outline of what "university extension" means, a term we have imported, with the system, from England.

This system was brought into operation first in 1867, in the north of England, and has ever since been pursued in that country with ever increasing scope. It received the indorsement of Cambridge (Eng.) University in 1873; of Oxford in 1878. In this country its institution was first undertaken through the advocacy of professors in that advanced and liberal seat of learning, the Johns Hopkins University, in 1887, and it was first attempted under the auspices of the superintendent of the Buffalo (N. [illegible] the result was a series of lectures by Dr. Bemis, a Hopkins graduate-student, in Buffalo in the winter of 1887-8. Perhaps no better conception of the scope of this system, and its beneficent results not only upon the individual but upon governmental and business affairs, can be shown than in the synopsis of Dr. Bemis' work in these Buffalo lectures, given by Prof. H. B. Adams, in the July Forum:

He gave twelve lectures in one of the class-rooms of the library on "Economic Questions of the Day." His special subjects were: (1) Causes of Discontent; (2) Socialism and Anarchy; (3) Henry George's Theory of Rent Taxation; (4 and 5) Monopolies; (6) Immigration; (7) Education; (8) Labor Legislation; (9) What Determines the Rate of Wages Under Perfect Competition; (10) Labor Organizations; (11) Cooperation and Profit-Sharing; (12) Taxation in the United States.

There was a printed syllabus, or subject analysis of each lecture, with suggestive reference to books, magazine articles, labor reports, etc. All the library material recommended in the syllabus was brought together in a special room of the library, and there Dr. Bemis could be found for consultation at certain hours every working day for twelve weeks. * * * People came to him for further information upon topics connected with his lectures. * * * Good citizens began to study political economy. Representatives of capital and labor sat side by side in the class-room and asked the lecturer hard questions.

While these first steps were being taken by representatives of Johns-Hopkins, Dr. Vincent of Chautauqua was examining the system in England, and beginning with 1889 the central Chautauqua has given lecture courses on the extension plan. The system has been tried in St. Louis, Dr. Bemis, then of the Vanderbilt University, making weekly trips from Nashville to St. Louis, 318 miles each way, to give the lectures. Rev. Howard MacQueary organized a course at Canton, this state, which was not a success. In Baltimore it has been successfully established, there directly under the auspices of Johns-Hopkins. It has also been successfully undertaken in some other cities. There is now a national association with headquarters at Philadelphia, called "The American Society for the Extension of University Teaching," and which has just issued the first number of a magazine called "University Extension."

Wherever the system has been tried, there has been markedly good results in the way of awakened interest in higher education and in the acquisition of knowledge by students. The classes choose the line of studies they will pursue, under advice from their teachers. Our illustration of Buffalo was of an economic class, but history, mathematics, or any line of legitimate study can be chosen. Does the system promise results that make its general adoption sufficiently beneficial to the community or state to recommend it? is a question well worthy of investigation.

For the University Extension system cannot be carried on as it should be by the students' fees. Where it is properly established it must be endowed, by individuals or by the state. New York has set an example, its legislature appropriating $10,000 to be expended in establishing the system, under the direction of the regents of the state university. Will the example be generally followed?

If Secretary Noble has not resigned, will he please say so? And if Postmaster-General Wanamaker is not going to resign, will President Harrison tell us what he is going to do about it?

Dr. James Taylor Petty, the editor of that bright journal the Fremont Daily News, will probably receive the republican nomination for senator in the Thirtieth district.

O'Brien and Dillon have declared against Parnell, who now has no adherent left worth mentioning, except Kitty.

The democratic convention of the Thirteenth senatorial district will be held at Oak Harbor, August 25.

Thomp Burton has sold the Cincinnati Southwest, and it will now support Gov. Campbell.

A Frayed Argument.

How absolutely stale and flat Major McKinley's speeches are. Yesterday he attempted to answer, what is incontrovertible history, the prosperity of the so-called free trade period. How did he do it? By reading a garbled extract from Millard Fillmore's message. Very old, very childlike. A great statesman with no more versatility than to recite a frayed declamation, which is as common as the ballad of Annie Rooney. And this was all. Had there been something else it might have been better.—Massillonian.

Will Evade It.

When in some Ohio manufacturing town a bright mechanic rises in the meeting and asks: Is there not some trick about it which makes us pay 15 per cent. more for our clothing than we would receive for our wool if the McKinley bill had done all that was promised, the confused candidate will point to France, Italy, Spain and Portugal and pull the ragged workingmen and closed factories, as described by the consular agents.—Boston Globe.

All for Jimmy.

The tone of the democratic papers in Ohio is cheering. On every hand the editorial brethren are buckling on their armor and getting ready for the fray. If the battle is not won this fall it will not be the fault of the democratic press. There is not a democratic paper in Ohio refusing to support Campbell. This speaks volumes for the loyalty and fidelity of those conducting this mighty engine of party power.—Georgetown Democrat.

NO END TO THE STORMS.

Another Disturbance Crossing the Country.

Sudden Changes to be the Order of the Month.

The Heat Theories of Storm Forces Discussed by Prof. Foster—Interesting Meteorologist Pointers.

Special to the Bee.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 1.—My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from July 29 to August 2, and the next will be due to leave the Pacific coast about August 4, cross the Rocky-Allegheny valley from 5th to 7th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 8th.

This storm wave will have a tendency to increase cloudiness and foggy weather with a moderate amount of rainfall. The low barometer will probably take a southern route with cool rains in the northern states. Weather will be very changeable and a second storm wave will be due to leave the Pacific coast about the 7th, cross the Rocky-Allegheny valley from 8th to 10th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 11th.

Sudden changes of the weather may be expected, and a third storm wave will leave the Pacific coast about the 10th, cross the Rocky-Allegheny valley from 11th to 13th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 14th. These storms are not expected to be of very great force, but much unsettled and changeable weather may be expected from August 4 to 10.

The weather will be favorable to the crops, and August will be the best growing weather of the summer. July is usually the hot month, but August will be the hot month this year. August will not average excessively hot, however.

The Heat Theory of Storm Forces.

In these northern latitudes all storms, including, rain, hail, snow and wind, are caused by pairs of barometers, each consisting of a high and a low. On this point there is no controversy between meteorologists, but when the cause of these high and low barometers is under consideration then serious differences of opinion arise.

All the old school or "orthodox" meteorologists claim that heat is the force that organizes these low and high barometers, especially of the former or storm centers. They claim that the sun heats the atmosphere near the earth, and this heated air, having a tendency to rise, finds a rift or weak place in the overhanging cooler atmosphere through which it rushes to higher altitudes, while the surrounding heated air rushes into this center, bringing together the moisture and clouds that go to make up the storm center.

This is a beautiful theory, but it cannot stand in the presence of reason. If it were true, the storm centers would originate where the atmosphere is heated most, and therefore we would look to the sandy plains of eastern Colorado and the heated and almost rainless country of New Mexico as the place where our storm centers originate and where they would develop their greatest force.

But they never originate there, and although we should expect, from the heat theory standpoint, that the storms would have greatest force where the earth is bare and the sands hottest, there is where our storms have least force and tornadoes seldom occur.

In portions of these arid districts the thermometer goes up to 120 above and if the heat theory were true tornadoes would dstroy every living thing every summer, but these hot deserts are almost wholly exempt from destructive storms. I can prove and will demonstrate that all our storm centers are perpetual, that they move entirely around the earth in about 23.2 days, and that neither heat nor cold influences them.

Their periods are not numbered by days and the hot part of the day does organize a new storm center every day as it must necessarily do if the heat theory were true. But the heat theory is a failure and has caused our national weather bureau to make very little or no progress in its twenty years efforts to forecast the weather.

The storm center causes the excessive heat instead of the heat causing the storm center. The excessive heat does not occur in the storm center or the center of the low barometers, but outside and southeast of them. The wind does not blow from the heated area to the storm center but from the high barometer to the low, and this air from the high barometer is never heated, but always cool and gradually becomes warmer as it nears the center of the low. The atmosphere in the low or storm center is never so warm as it is southeast of and outside of the storm center.

If the heat theory were true the low barometers would decrease or change to a high in the mountains between Washington and the Dakotas, for in those Rocky mountains the atmosphere is always cooler than it is in the valleys of the Mississippi and the Pacific coast, but we often see a very low barometer in those mountains, while southeast and in the heated plains near the corners of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and the Indian Territory is, at the same time, a correspondingly high barometer or anti-storm center. In this case the heat is in the anti-storm center and the comparatively cool weather in the storm center.

According to the heat theory a typical hurricane would be fed from the hotter air that should come from nearer the equator, when it is an indisputable fact that they are fed by cold waves from extreme northern latitudes. The cold wave rushes into the tropical hurricane warming as it nears it and rising in its vortex. I defy anyone to controvert these statements and challenge all the old theory meteorologists to support their heat theory in the face of these facts which cannot be reconciled with the heat theory.

Our national weather bureau cannot succeed on this false basis, and Prof. Harrington, who is now at its head, should drop the heat theory as a failure and adopt that of electricity.

A Silver Find.

Eureka Springs, Ark., Aug. 1.—Some excitement has been created here by the discovery of silver about eight miles east of the city on land belonging to Messrs. Baker and Pendergrast, attorneys of this place. A vein of lead containing a large percentage of silver which runs perpendicularly through a solid rock has been found at a depth of 10 feet. An assay of the mineral found shows it to be very rich and of fine quality. Active work will be commenced on this mine in a few days.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

The Consolidated Street Car Company Establish a Grading Scale of Promotion.

The Consolidated Street Car company is preparing an interesting schedule of its employes and are establishing rules, the object of which will be the grading of the men. Some changes are reported and anticipated.

Speaking with a BEE this morning, Manager Lang said: "There will be no change for the present that I know of. We are very busy mapping out a schedule of regulations and rules."

"What will be the nature of these regulations, Mr. Lang?"

"Well, we propose establishing a grading scale of promotion. When these rules are established under the new union, we propose giving the oldest men the best show. For instance, we find that John Jones has worked for us 10 years, and is the oldest man in our employ. When our routes have been mapped out, we will ask Mr. Jones to take his first choice, which will mean the easiest route and the best pay. Tom Robison, for instance, is the next oldest man in our employ, and he will get the next best chance, and so on all down."

"Do you propose making $1.80 the basis of a day's work?"

"Well, we cannot do that this month, but we arranging to come as near it as possible. It may be that some of the men on the swing routes will work anywhere from half an hour to an hour less than the 12 hours, in which case we propose only paying at the rate of 15 cents an hour; in fact the men shall be paid by the hour, 15 cents an hour. Now regarding the proposed regulations, I will say that promotion on our lines will be made as fast as vacancies occur, and the oldest men will be promoted, a new man raising by the graded scale from one route to another till he attains the best."

It is believed that this scale, if thoroughly carried out, will tend to facilitate not only the running of the cars, but increase the advantages of the traveling public in the matter of street car facilities. It may be interesting to some of the men to know that changes are contemplated, which will not be to their disadvantage.

G. A. R. VISITORS.

Gen. Sherman's Old Comrades in the City.

Ransom Post No. 131, of St Louis, Spend Two Hours in Toledo and Participate in a Parade With Toledo Posts.

Ransom Post, No. 131, G. A. R., of St. Louis, spent two hours in Toledo this morning, on their way to Detroit, and were entertained by the posts of this city. The visitors, numbering 140 members of the post, 100 ladies and the Arsenal band, arrived at 7 o'clock on a special train of palace sleeping and reclining chair cars over the Wabash road. They took breakfast at the Jefferson, Burnett and Hamilton hotels, and at 8:30 formed in front of the postoffice for a short parade. They were joined in this by Volunteer, Toledo and Forsyth posts, who acted as escorts.

Ransom Post is Gen. Sherman's old post, and he was their first post commander. They presented a fine appearance in the parade, and the band accompanying them is a splendid musical organization.

This post is very large, and is one of the most important posts in the west. It also numbers among its members more general and staff officers than any other post.

The parade ended at Monroe street wharf, where the visitors boarded the steamer City of Toledo and left for Put-in-Bay, with a good bye of three cheers from the veterans on shore.

Ransom post leaves Put-in-Bay this afternoon on the steamer Frank E. Kirby for Detroit, where their headquarters will be at St. Aloysius school, Park Place.

Sunday will be spent in Detroit, and on Monday the post goes to Port Huron by steamer, where they will be tendered a reception by Sanborn post of that city. On their return to Detroit the same evening they will be given a reception at which Gen. Alger and Secretary of War Proctor will be in attendance.

The officers of the post are: L. B. Ripley, post commander; D. R. Haynes, S. V. P. commander; C. P. Chesebro, J. V. P. commander; J. F. Cluley, adjutant; S. M. Sparklin, quartermaster.

Mr. Reed is back, but will not resume business at the old stand next winter.—N. Y. World.

It is noteworthy that when ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed arrived at the New York custom house the other day with a lot of trunks filled with "cheap and nasty" foreign goods, all of them dutiable, he presented a "courtesy permit" on which his valuables were passed through untaxed.

Mr. Reed was willing to play the part of a dictator and tyrant a few months ago in order to fasten upon the American people a law that he now evades for his own personal profit. Protective tariffs are made to oppress the poor and the defenseless. The rich and powerful have many ways of evading them.—Chicago Herald.

Speaker Reed has come home in splendid health and with a large fund of new experiences. He has had a good time in Europe. He went abroad for pleasure and he got it. He visited the ruins of Pantum and the national legislatures of England, France and Italy. The former he seems to have admired more than the latter. Europe can give this country points on ruins, but the legislative body that can teach Speaker Reed anything he does not know about parliamentary practice is yet to be discovered.—Mail and Express.

But the suspense will soon be over, and the king shall come into his own again. Already our republican friends are jubilant and are pointing out the great things that Mr. Reed will do. Stored in his trunks he has ample proof to show that high protection is practiced in the dominion of God and His angels; that the golden streets of the New Jerusalem could not be maintained without such a policy, and that there is no escape from it either here or in the hereafter. Mr. Reed will at once explode all democratic heresies, and resume the sovereignty that he put aside for a short season.—Courier-Journal.

NAPTHA LAUNCH NELLIE.

Enroute to Join the Ohio Yacht Club Fleet.

New York to Toledo—A Log of the Trip so Far as it is Written—Interesting Observations.

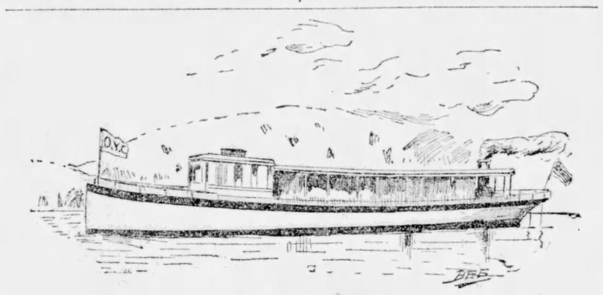
On July 18 the naptha launch Nellie was ready to sail. Our party of seven is under the guidance of a most efficient captain, the owner of the boat, Capt. John Weber. At starting it was proposed to keep a log—a record of the long journey from New York to Toledo, to note the shifting winds, the varying of our course, the cities, towns and prominent historical spots in which the world-famed Hudson abounds, but the combined beauties of hill and dale, mountain and stream, and the multiplicity of incidents that befall a mariner soon discouraged the keeper of the log and the idea was abandoned. Save for the few jottings from which this account is penned, we let winds and waves go as they list, without a thought beyond the pleasure or immediate duty of the hour.

Before the command was given to "let her go," the captain asked the keeper of the log—Nusbaum—if all were on board. The scribe called the roll;

Captain John Weber.
Charles Hauser.
Martin Carney.
William Wernert.
Dan Nusbaum.
Willie Kelly.

A prompt nautical response came from all except Willie Kelly. Upon investigation it was discovered Willie was searching Green street for a cup of German coffee. As soon as he stepped aboard, Captain Weber gave the starting signal and the Nellie responded promptly to the wheelman's touch, and in a short time we left behind the heart of the busy, feverish metropolis, and after gracefully steered by strange looking vessels, sailing crafts, steamers, we stood with our mouths ajar taking in everything—charmed by the approaching majestic grandeur of the threatening battlements of the Palisades which rise in bold relief to our left, while to the right we sail past field and wood, hill and dale teeming with historic memories dating from Aboriginal, Colonial and Revolutionary days, the hills are thickly dotted with the magnificent summer homes of the social and commercial magnates of the metropolis. So much has already been said about the peculiarities of the Hudson river that to detail them would be superfluous. We simply admired the ever changing scenes. At 6 p. m. we arrived at the ancient settlement of Yonkers, 17 miles from New York, now a tarrying city of 30,000.

It was here the captain discovered the necessity of subjecting the men to discipline and dividing the various duties aboard ship and on land. Captain Willie



THE NAPHTHA YACHT NELLIE.

Kelly was assigned all land duties. He received his appointment for his successful efforts in finding Martin Carney, who was lost while sight-seeing. We intended leaving Yonkers at sundown, but for the absence of Carney we were compelled to remain until 6 a. m., July 19. Kelly found Carney at 5 a. m., searching for a telephone.

At 9 o'clock we passed the village of Irvington, named in honor of Washington Irving whose gifted pen has immortalized the far-famed "Sleepy Hollow" and "Wolfert's Roost." We slackened our speed as we became abreast of "Sunnyside," renowned as the home of Irving. It is almost hidden from view by the dense growth of surrounding trees.

Lyndehurst, the old Paulding Manor, now the property of Jay Gould, is the most conspicuous of the many fine residences in the vicinity of Irvington. Dan Nusbaum read several selections from Irving's Alhambra. Our historian, William Wernert, says as we passed Tarrytown, "Revolutionary memories cluster hereabouts, for it was here that Major Andre was captured and the treachery of Benedict Arnold exposed." We turned our backs to Sing Sing and admired the beautiful Bay of Haverstraw, into which the gallant explorer, Hendrick Hudson, sailed centuries ago. We passed in quick succession many small villages and at 11 o'clock we were at the gates of the romantically beautiful region known as the Hudson Highlands. At Peekskill, a thriving place of 7,000 inhabitants, we merely stopped a moment for a glass of lemonade. And an hour later we were anchored off West Point. The site commands one of the finest river passes in the world. The Academy is located upon a plateau 180 feet above the river. It is located in the Highlands. Under command of Capt. Willie Kelly, of the Land forces, after subject to inspection touching our attire by Capt. Weber, we marched up the delightful driveway and paid our respects to the officers in command. Charlie Hauser, being familiar with West Point tactics, was spokesmen. Each man gave a history of his experiences both personal and otherwise in the late war, but the only thing which seemed to please West Point officials was Carney's sandy mustache—waxed, curled in accordance with military regulations. Near Cornwall rise the steep sides of Storm King and Bunderberg, with Crow's Nest and Bear Hill nestling between them. Immediately below these giant rocks is very deep water, and porpoises frequently are seen playing in the blue water. We were all in the cabin except Dan Nusbaum, who was taking in the ozone alone on deck. Soon hurried footsteps were heard, and Dan's smiling countenance appeared at the door of the cabin.

"Boys, a whale!" he yelled at the top of his voice.

We of course thought he was "guying" us and began another game. Suddenly we felt a jar, as if struck by an approaching vessel. Hastening on board we saw Dan squatting on the deck bracing his feet against the bulworks and holding fast to a rope.

"Oh, I got him, and he's out of sight." Sure enough, Dan's whale was a porpoise and he attached a rope to the pointed hunt pole, and with a well directed aim harpooned the porpoise—the water foamed, the Nellie cut the water as if towed by lightning and we begged of Dan "to let her go"—but he only wrapped the rope around his body. "Not by a darned sight," he replied. Fearing the vessel would strike a rock in its rapid course, Capt. Weber ordered Dan cut. A splash—a circle in the water—a mad sailor—the "whale" and Dan had disappeared, and not until afterdark when we anchored off Kingston did Nusbaum appear on deck, asking if we had seen any more whales.

At Fishkill-on-Hudson we stopped long enough to make inquiry about Capt. C. F. June, who lived at Newburgh, but we learned he was off fishing.

At Poughkeepsie permission was given Willie Kelly to visit Vassar college. He remained over the allotted time and Nusbaum was commissioned to search the college for him. Dan started over the great bridge which spans the Hudson at this place. As he approached the center of the bridge he stopped to see the draw swing for a down coming vessel. He stood in the middle of the draw—the great bridge noiselessly swung around—Dan's face was all aglow admiring the changing scenery and beautiful surroundings—so he did not notice that the draw turned entirely around and he unconsciously walked back—over the same route upon which he had entered the bridge a few moments before. To his enquiries at Fishkill—"Where is the young ladies' Vassar college," he invariably received the reply "Across the river, sir." Dan returned declaring the inhabitants on the banks of the Hudson daft. Kelly turned in sometime after eight bells, and entertained us right royally with a description of what he had seen.

We left Kingston at sunrise Monday, July 20, and only stopped a short time at Catskill, 111 miles from New York. This is the landing place for thousands of tourists who annually visit the Catskill mountains. Charlie Hauser, who claimed he learned how to fish at Presque Isle, tried his luck in the shadow of overhanging rocks. He landed on the deck but one fish, that was all, but it cleaned the deck in two minutes. Of all the strange looking inhabitants which roam at the bottom of the sea, this was the worst specimen ever seen either in book or dreamed of. It barked like a dog, cried like a Panama tiger and slapped the deck with its tail until Nusbaum, through fright, crawled in his bunk. No bullet could penetrate its hide, nothing could frighten it from its stronghold. It had full and complete possession of the Nellie. Charlie Hauser had nothing to say. Like Denison Steele on the famous Speranza cruise, he wanted no more fishing in his. We were delayed eight hours on account of this monstrosity. Finally, Hauser used his persuasive powers and induced it to "quit the ship."

At the head of ship navigation and finely situated upon a bold, rocky promontory is one of the oldest cities in the state—Hudson, having been incorporated in 1785. It has now a population of about 15,000. We remained here only long enough to get supplies and hastened on toward Albany. We passed many interesting towns and grand scenery, and taking into consideration the congeniality of our party, we doubt if there was ever a happier crowd sailed up or down the Hudson. Wind and weather favored us. In the afternoon we arrived at Albany. Dressed in regulation uniform and headed by ex-Councilman Hauser, we are enroute to the capitol to pay our respects to Gov. Hill. Tomorrow we will again resume our journey northward.

"The half has not been told."

ROBBERY AS A SIDE ISSUE.

The Arrest of a Prominent Man Causes a Sensation.

Magnolia, Ark., Aug. 1.—For several years there has been carried on here a systematic series of burglaries and shrewd detectives have been baffled in attempts to ferret out the robber.

Yesterday Henry C. Carson was apprehended in the back yard of a private residence in his stocking feet, armed with a murderous looking weapon and had with him a mask.

Carson was a merchant here, but retired from business a year ago. He was respected and unsuspected, but the evidence hourly accumulating makes his chance a bad one.

He's a Bad Man.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 1.—B. D. Weldon alias E. S. Strong, is under arrest here as a fugitive from justice from Alabama. About a year ago while living in Birmingham, Weldon had his life insured for $30,000.

A few days afterwards his clothes were found on the river bank to give the impression he had been drowned. His wife claimed the insurance, but the company refused to pay it on the ground that Weldon was not dead.

Suit was brought to recover the money and the case is still pending in the Alabama courts.

Before leaving Birmingham, Weldon, it is said, forged the name of his father-in-law, George B. Mann, to two notes of $400 each and detectives have been on his track ever since.

He was arrested here last Saturday and will be taken back to Birmingham.

A Plea for Parnell.

Dublin, Aug. 1.—The Freeman's Journal renews its appeal to the warring Irish factions to find some means of promptly effecting a reconciliation "without ruthlessly throwing to the wolves a man whose leadership brought the cause to the threshold of success."

The National Press (McCarthyite) intimates that there is a divergency of opinion among the directors of the Freeman's Journal as to the policy to be pursued by Mr. Gray, it is understood, is now a thorough anti-Parnellite and is supposed to need to have his hands strengthened in the work he has recently undertaken on behalf of the Irish parliamentary party.

Charged with Theft.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 1.—Three months ago the agent of the People's bank at Mahone Bay mailed a package containing $1,500 to the agency at Mahone Bay, 10 miles distant. It never reached its destination. Yesterday Simon Burgevine, postmaster at Mahone Bay, was arrested for stealing the money, and Jacob Runuland was arrested as accessory.

Waterville's Gas Well.

Waterville, Aug. 1.—(Special)—Gas well No. 3, which was cleaned out and drilled, was shot Friday afternoon. The flow of gas has been considerably increased. Miss Adda Metzger, one of our cool headed young ladies, dropped the gas devil which ignited the charge.

A RAVING MANIAC.

Condition of a Man Who Did Not Follow the Directions for Taking Medicine.

Alliance, O., Aug. 1.—John Jayburg, aged 70, residing with his daughter, Mrs. Reichenbaum, nine miles southeast of this city, is a raving maniac and all hopes of his recovery have been given up, as a result of his eating a patent medicine.

He had been afflicted with asthma for some time past and his daughter recently bought some medicine from a peddler in hopes that it would benefit her father. The directions were that the medicine should be smoked in a pipe or the smoke inhaled from a plate. Mr. Jayburg, instead of following these directions, ate the drug, and his life is now despaired of by the medical attendants.

WARREN IS STILL OUT.

He Was Elected and Wants His Certificate.

More Changes Made by State Board of Equalization in Various Counties.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—An attempt was made in the state board of equalization yesterday to have valuation of Cuyahoga county farm lands reconsidered. Mr. Horton, of Vinton, moved that the vote by which they were increased 10 per cent be reconsidered. His object was to secure a reduction of 5 per cent on the increase.

The motion was tabled for the reason that the board had determined not to reconsider its action on any county until it has finished going over the work of the committee of the whole.

Only two more counties remain to be considered of the work of the committee of the whole, and as soon they are passed upon, the board will take up Cuyahoga county farm lands.

It is probable many other changes in several parts of the state will be made before the board finally adjourns. It is thought that the adjournment sine die will take place one week from to-day.

The board to-day considered and changed the assessed value of several towns and counties. Mansfield and the villages of Richland county were reduced 3 per cent. The farm lands in Ross county were reduced 8 per cent., Chillicothe 4 per cent., and Bainbridge 8 per cent. Farm lands in Sandusky county were changed from a 15 per cent. increase to 5 per cent. reduction. All other villages in Sandusky county were decreased 5 per cent. Muskingum farm lands decreased 8 per cent., city of Zanesville increased 2 per cent.; Dublon decreased 8 per cent., and all other towns in the county 5 per cent.

Foster R. Warren, of Toledo, was in the city, but has not yet received a certificate of election as a member of the board from the Thirty-third district.

Mr. Warren stated to a friend that as he was elected to the place he would not accept an appointment should the governor decide to fill the vacancy occasioned by the retirement of Mr. Hyatt.

Married the Coachman.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 1.—On last Tuesday Miss Josie Loring, a pretty young heiress of Elizabeth, and Michael Kennedy, a coachman, were secretly married at Dunellen, three miles west of here. The girl is 17 and has a fortune. Her people are very angry at the marriage. They cannot touch her money, however, as that is secured to her. The couple have settled down in this town, where the young wife says she will start her husband in business as soon as she gets her money.

The marriage has created a sens

Sixty Years' Bondage.

ALLENDALE, ILL., June 20, 1890

Dr. J. W. Bergen, Petersburg, Ind.:

DEAR SIR—I have been afflicted with asthma over sixty years, and have tried everything for it and for over nine months I had two doctors waiting on me, and they both gave me up to die. I commenced taking Dr. J. W. Bergen's Asthma Cure, and have taken three bottles of it and I am better than I have been for fifty years. I am able to do my own work, and can give the medicine great praise, and wish every one who is afflicted with that awful disease would give it a trial. Yours truly,

THE NAUGHTY DOLL.

My dolly is a dreadful care—
Her name is Miss Amandy;
I dress her up and curl her hair
And feed her taffy candy
Yet, heedless of the pleading voice
Of her devoted mother,
She will not wed her mother's choice,
But says she'll wed another.

I'd have her wed the china vase—
There is no Dresden rarer;
You might go searching every place
And never find a fairer;
He is a gentle, pinkish youth—
Of that there's no denying—
Yet when I speak of him, forsooth,
Amandy falls to crying.

She loves the drum—that's very plain—
And scorns the vase so clever,
And weeping vows she will remain
A spinster doll forever!
The protestations of the drum
I am convinced are hollow;
When once life's stirring times should come,
How soon would ruin follow.

Yet all in vain the Dresden boy
From yonder mantel woos her—
A mania for that vulgar toy,
The noisy drum, imbues her!
In vain I wheel her to and fro
And reason with her mildly;
Her waxen tears in torrents flow,
Her sawdust heart beats wildly.

I'm sure that when I'm big and tall
And wear long trailing dresses,
I shan't encourage beaux at all
Till mamma acquiesces;
Our choice will be a suitor then
As pretty as this vase is—
Oh, how we'll hate the noisy men
With whiskers on their faces!

Various people were frightened by strange noises in an old grave by an Arkansas roadside and a robust ghost story was on for a long run, when several young men made an investigation and found that an old coon and a lot of young ones had made their home in the bushes about the mound.

A monkey in New York got a bottle of whiskey the other day, and, after swallowing the contents, proceed to rip things up generally, and even went so far as to decline to hand over the pennies that were given to him for his boss organ grinder, preferring to squander them all on himself. There seems to be a good deal of human nature in the monkey tribe.

Some of the most prominent iron founders are introducing a new and simple practice in order to secure stronger castings, the method in question consisting in placing thin sheets of wrought iron in the center of the mold previous to the operation of casting. This method was first resorted to, it appears, in the casting of thin plates for the ovens of cooking stoves, it being found that a sheet of thin iron in the center of a quarter-inch oven plate rendered it practically unbreakable by fire.

It has been demonstrated that while the greatest velocity imparted to a cannon ball scarcely exceeds 600 meters a second—about 1,500 miles an hour—meteors from space penetrate the air with a velocity, it is claimed, of 40,000, sometimes 60,000, meters per second. This tremendous speed raises the temperature of the air at once to 4,000 or 6,000 degrees centigrade, causing in many cases the complete destruction of the meteorite by combustion.

The late Archbishop Tait, of Canterbury, once made an effective use of a sermon. Driving down Holloway Hill he was confronted by a runaway horse with a heavy dray making straight for his carriage. He threw a sermon in his face. The horse was so bewildered by the fluttering of the leaves that it swerved and paused, the driver regained control, the sermon was picked up and the bishop proceeded on his way. "I don't know," he said to his companion, the present archbishop of York, "whether my sermon did any good to the congregation, but it was of considerable service to me."

The uses made of the refuse of Paris streets are numerous. Little wisps of women's hair are carefully unraveled, and do duty for false hair by and by. Men's hair collected outside the barbers' serves for filters trough which syrups are strained; bits of sponge are cut up and used for spirit lamps; bits of bread, if dirty, are toasted and grated and sold to the restaurants for spreading on hams or cutlets; sometimes they are carbonized and made into tooth powder. Sardine boxes are cut up into tin soldiers or into sockets for candlesticks. A silk hat has a whole chapter of adventures in store for it. All this work employs a regiment of ragpickers, numbering close on to 20,000, and each earning from 20 pence to half a crown a day.

A Montana correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin records an adventure he had with a bear. He was returning to his cabin after an excursion in the mountains and heard a strange sort of rumbling from the inside as he approached. "We had left the door open, but concluded to cautiously peer in at the window to see what was going on inside. In the dusk we discovered a mass of blackness moving around in the cabin. At once we knew a monster bear was there. The Winchester lay ins de near the window. By breaking in the pane we could reach it. For a moment only we hesitated and soon the gun was ready for firing. The falling of the broken glass attracted the attention of his bearship and he whirled about-face. We fired again and again. The monster beast rolled upon the floor, upset the table, spilled the ink, scattered papers, and created a general whirl around. We lighted a lamp and found a basket of eggs and a side of bacon had furnished bruin with an evening meal."

A characteristic story of Stephen Girard was that he induced a boy to work for him till he was 21 years old by promising to give him a good start in life afterwards. When the time came the young man applied for the promised reward. The eccentric old merchant looked at him for a moment, and then said, gruffly: "Go and learn a trade." Considerably cast down, for he had expected a very different start, the young man turned away; but after some reflection, knowing something of the other's peculiarities, he decided to do as he had been bidden, and learned the cooper's trade. When he had mastered it, a year or so later, he presented himself again, and the old man gave him an order for two barrels. He made and delivered them, and Mr. Girard examined and pratfed them. "Now," he said, "you have a capital that you cannot lose, for you can always fall back on your trade if you meet with adversity," and then he advanced his protege a considerable capital with which to start in business.

THE KING OF CHINA.

Bobby Gaylor Outdone by an Irish Sailor,

Who Was King of a Cannibal Isle.

A Yarn of the Sea, as Spun on the Dock—It Was Told by the Hero and so Must be True.

During the last theatrical season Bobby Gaylor gave a very interesting portrayal of an Irishman who came into power in the Orient, but during the past week there has been in Toledo a man whose history is almost a counterpart, in real life, of the "Irish Turk."

He is a sailor and his name is William J. Bain, but he is better known among his messmates as the "King of China." Bain is an Irishman by birth, having been first brought to light in the County Down in the year 1835.

Like all sailors he is fond of spinning a yarn, and, having traveled the world over by sea and by land, in ships of all nations, he has met with plenty of adventure and has many a yarn to spin. A ration of grog soon loosens his tongue and then he will talk fluently on his past life. His story of how he came by the title of royalty is best told in his own words, as he gave it to a BEE the other afternoon, while swinging his heels off the wharf back of Quale's elevator.

"I suppose you've heard the boys call me the King of China, but that was only from a joke. Yet I was just as good as a king before that on one of the South Sea islands, Howsomever I'll begin at the first and spin my yarn straight through. I've had a life with more romance than lots of these here books and it would be a good thing for somebody to write up.

"I went to sea w en only 14 years old, ran away from home, of course, and shipped on an o d North Atlantic packet ship and I've been a sailor ever since. Been in most all the seas of the world and on a good deal of land, for I never saw the railroad yet that I couldn't beat my way on.

"In '81 I was second mate on the British ship Caallenger, out of Liverpool, on a voyage to the South sea islands, and on the homeward bound passage we touched at the Marquesas islands. I went ashore with one of the boats after water at one of the little islands, and like a fool I wandered away from the b at's crew, and they went back to the ship without me. I don't know what kind of a story they told, but anyway the ship sailed away and left me here. By and by I ran across a gang of he nigger natives, who soon had me tied up tighter than wax. I thought my time had come, but they decided to take me to their chief before killing me. When we got to the chief, I hope to fall dead if he wasn't an Irishman all togged out in feathers and tatooing. When he saw me he ordered them to let me go and took me into his hut to live. His name was McMann, and he had been a sailor. Having landed on this island he married a native woman, and when the old chief died they made him their king. He told me he had been there 20 years. I afterwards found out that the bit of an island only had one small tribe of natives on it, and so he had things all his own way. He had several likely daughters and one son, and was contented to live there the rest of his days.

"On these islands it is the custom among the natives for the women to do the courting and choose their own husbands, so when old McMann's eldest daughter wanted me to marry her there was no way out of it. We were married with the native ceremony and the whole island turned out to see us and held a great feast.

"This made me one of the royal family, as it were, and they then looked up to me as a great chief. McMann's name among the natives was Tahombolo, and they called me Tabokon. The small island we were on was called Thombo, and lies a little southwest of Hiwaoa. Among these savages the women do all the work, and so I had an easy time of it. The biggest snap I ever struck.

"Here I staved nearly four years and had three children. No ship ever touched at the island and they told me that the Challenger was the first one that had been there for many years before. We had some fighting with natives from other islands, but licked them at each battle. I had my revolver and it frightened them off every time. The Tuombo natives were also very much afraid of the gun and treated me very respectfully. When not fighting I didn't do anything but lay around, eat, sleep and drink the native liquor.

BAIN AS A CANNIBAL CHIEF.

"I might have been there yet, but when old McMann died I got into hot water. As soon as he passed in his checks I made a proclamation that I was king and started in to rule the island. A good many of the natives stood by me, but McManu's young son, Kuto, wanted to be king, and he refused to recognize me. About two-thirds of the natives took his side and declared war on me. Things became very lively about that time I tell you. We had a good many skirmishes, and I seemed to get the worst of it. After three months of this, Kuto got about two hundred cannibals from an island near by and drove me to the end of my string. In order to save myself from being done up into steaks for the brutes, I got into one of their canoes on a dark night and shoved off, after putting aboard all the provisions she could carry. I knocked about the sea for a week without seeing a sail or sighting land and then my provisions gave out.

"Say, it's bloody dry work talking like this, mister," the king suddenly remarked, breaking his yarn, "don't you think we had better wet up a little?"

He would not say another word with a dry throat, and in order to hear how he came out of his predicament an adjournment was necessary. After this ceremony was over he proceeded.

"When the water ran out I gave up all hope, but as luck would have it I was picked up by a ship and afterwards landed on Pitcairn island. I don't know what became of my wife or children, nor do I know how the trouble came out in my little kingdom. I suppose Kuto is king there yet, if some other tribe has not captured and eaten him.

From Pitcairn's island I went to Norfolk island, where I stayed six months. There I caught a trader and went to Honolulu, and while knocking about there was put in jail because I wouldn't become a citizen of the Hawaiian government. In six months I was released and shipped on board the trader Arabella bound for the Fiji islands, where I was shot with a poisoned arrow. When I recovered from this I shipped again and went to Melbourne, then to San Francisco. From there I came around the horn to Bath, Me., afterwards stopping at New York and Philadelphia. I made another trip around the horn and finally landed in Queenstown. I went out of Queenstown again on the Heather Bell and soon found myself in the waters of the South Sea once more.

"HERE COMES THE KING!"

I left the ship at Calcutta and after working on the beach for a while shipped as carpenter in the British India steamer Neuberdada. I couldn't drive a nail, but as I was in hard luck the mate took me at a salary of 100 rupees a month. In her I visited Colombo, Rangoon, Penang, Singapore and Hong Kong.

"At Hong Kong the sailors were given a two days' lay ashore, and we started out for a time. After filling up at the two English saloons on the Queen's Road, we hired donkeys and started out for a ride. I didn't know anything about riding, and when, about five miles outside of the city, my donkey threw me off. I was nearly stunned. The other fellows had ridden ahead and I was left a one. Going to a hut near by I was met by a beautiful Japanese woman, and I was surprised to hear her speak English fluently. She invited me in and brought out something to eat and drink. This woman had a sister, even more beautiful than she, and at their invitation I stayed at the house two days. During this time we drank plenty of the native liquor, made from rice, and by the second day were feeling rather happy. I was obliged to go back to the ship and so I hired a double jin-rikshah and I started to take the lady back with me. We had four Chinamen to tote us, and I hired another to run ahead with a big bell. You see, I was going to return in great style. Down the road we went at a good pace, and as we entered Hong Kong our forerunner commenced to shout, 'Here comes the king; here comes the queen,' and you had better believe we made a sensation. The people all came running to see us and fell on their knees by the road. This was very fine, but the police soon came, too, and suddenly ended our fun by pulling me out and sending the woman home. Our captain, however, happened to be near, and hearing the row had come up to see what was going on. He nearly split his sides lauging at us, but when the police pinched me he fixed it with them and sent me aboard the ship.

"I never heard the last of that trick, and that is why I'm called the 'King of China.'"

With this remark his royal highness concluded the yarn, with a promise of more some other time, and strolled away down the dock.

Against Her Record.

New York, Aug. 1.—Sunol will trot against her own record at the horse fair to begin at San Jose, Cal., on the 10th inst. This announcement is made on the authority of Robert Bonner, her owner. According to that gentleman she will try to beat her record of 2:10, and if possible equal Maud S.'s time of 2:08¾. Mr. Bonner is of opinion that she might beat her own record, but is doubtful as to her ability to equal that of Maud S. He showed the United Press reporter a letter recently received from Superintendent Marvin, of Leland Stanford's stock farm at Palo Alto, Cal., in which the writer said he was making every effort to have Sunol in the best possible shape for the effort to reduce the record previously made by her. Mr. Bonner is of opinion that the limit of speed for a trotting horse has been very nearly attained, and says that if he should live 25 years longer he does not think the record will be reduced to 2:05, although there were some who thought it would.

Will Get no New Trial.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 1.—Judge Carpenter, at the session of the full bench of the supreme court to-day delivered an exhaustive opinion upon the exceptions taken by the defense during the trial of Isaac Sawtelle for the murder of his brother Hiram.

All the objections are overruled. The court hold that the objection to certain jurors is not well taken, as the jurors were allowed to sit by the presiding judges who had a right to pass upon their competency. This was the principal objection upon which Sawtelle's counsel rely for a new trial.

They Would not Serve.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The republican state committee have received letters of resignation from Hon. Joseph H. Walker, Gen. William Cogswell and Hon. F. W. Rockwell, the three men designated to prepare the resolutions to be presented at the state convention. As nearly as can be learned the three named gentlemen have written letters which raise a question as to whether or not present or recent occupancy of office made it proper that they should be less conspicuous in the convention.

New Steamship Line.

New York, Aug. 1.—Beginning October 21 the North German Lloyd Steamship company will run a passenger steamer direct from New York to Genoa every five weeks. The trip will occupy about ten days, and will be a very convenient way of reaching the Riviera and southern France.

Terms of Settlement.

Boston, Aug. 1.—It is stated that in the settlement between the Chicago Stock Yards company and Messrs. Armour, Morris and Swift, the company pays $500,000 for the Central stock yards property, and drops the pending lawsuits.

President Mott Resigns.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 1.—Wilbur A. Mott, president of the state league of republican clubs, has resigned on account of the pressure of private business upon his time and it is understood that some prominent man who will receive the activity of the league will be elected in his place at the executive committee meeting next Wednesday.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Rev. S. D. Hutsinpiller Can't Preach.

TO THE EDITOR: On returning to the city I find myself announced to preach at Auburndale to-morrow afternoon. It is a total surprise to me, and as I am booked for a full day at St. Paul's to-morrow I must be excused from any third appointment. I regret that my name was so used without my consent, and trust that no further embarrassment will result therefrom. Similarly appointments having been made for me on one or two occasions I feel that with malice toward none and good will toward all I must ask the privilege of always signing my own checks.

Yours courteously,

S. D. HUTSINPILLER.

FOSTORIA AFFAIRS.

Contract for Furnishing the New Church—Petty Thieving.

Fostoria, O., Aug. 1.—The contract for furnishing the new Presbyterian church with pews and pulpit set was awarded yesterday by the trustees to the Manitowac Manufacturing Co., of Manitowac, Wis.

For some months back the Lamp and Shade works have been troubled by thieving of valuable lamps and shades, which would be stolen from the office or factory.

Wednesday night the watchman saw a Nickle Plate passenger brakeman carry two plain shades from the factory, overhauled him, and took them from him. He then informed the railroad company, which made official investigation next day. Combs denies any intention of stealing, saying he took them from a lot of broken ones.

Jno. F. Heilman, a pioneer resident, is lying near death's door with cancer.

A merchant from Columbia City was here Thursday to inspect the clothing taken from the man now in jail for trying to sell it. He did not identify it.

WILL GO ON A STRIKE.

Every Member of the Seattle Fire Department to Resign.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 1.—Every member of the fire department will resign to-night. A petition was circulated yesterday and was signed by all the members. This action was brought about by the action of the retrenchment committee of the council in reporting a cut of $15 a month all around. All engineers are cut $20. The reduction to take effect Aug. 15.

Entitled to an Earldom.

London, Aug. 1.—The house of lords today decided that Randall Mowbray Thomas Berkeley is entitled to the earldom of Berkeley. The present holder of the title is ousted. The case has been long pending, and hinged upon the validity of the marriage of the fifth Earl Berkeley to his housekeeper, Mary Gole, in 1785.

Will Shut Down.

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 1.—The extensive shoe manufacturer, James H. Winchell, has announced his intention to shut down his factory where 650 hands are employed, the lasters having given notice that they will demand more pay after September 1. Mr. Winchell says he is tired of being bulldozed by labor unions.

DO YOU SMOKE?

"Yes, when I can get an El Fronda Cigar. It is the best brand made—long Havana filler with a selected Sumatra wrapper. I have never smoked anything better."

THE POSITIVE CURE.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAYFEVER ELY'S CREAM BALM

They poulticed her feet and poulticed her head,
And blistered her back till 'twas smarting and red.
Tried tonics, elixirs, pain killers and salves
(Though grandma declared it was nothing but "nerves.").
The poor woman thought she must certainly die,
Till "Favorite Prescription" she happened to try.—
No wonder its praises so loudly they speak;
She grew better at once and was well in a week.

The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of female weakness, yield like magic to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of woman. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms, and relieves the pain accompanying functional and organic troubles. Guarantee printed on bottle wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

SWEETEST THINGS OF EARTH.

What are the sweetest things of Earth?—
Lips that can praise a rival's worth;
A fragrant rose that hides no thorn;
Riches of gold untouched by scorn;
A happy little child asleep;
Eyes that can smile though they may weep;
A brother's cheer; a father's praise;
The minstrelsy of summer days;
A heart where never anger burns;
A gift that looks for no returns;
Wrong's overthrow; pain's swift release;
Dark footsteps guided into peace;
The light of love in lover's eyes;
Age that is young as well as wise;
An honest hand that needs no ward;
A life with right in true accord;
A hope-bud waxing into joy;
A happiness without alloy;
A mother's kiss; a baby's mirth—
These are the sweetest things of earth.

THE GIRLS OF NINETY-ONE.

They tell me 'twas the fashion,
Oh, long and long ago,
For girls to look like lilies white,
And sit at home and sew.
Forth strode their sturdy brothers,
On many a gallant quest;
But the maids behind the lattice
Their weary souls possessed.

To-day the times have altered,
And pretty Kate and Nell
Are playing merry tennis,
In sooth, they do it well.
They ride across the country,
They climb the mountain side,
And with oars that feather lightly,
Along the rivers glide.

If they've not yet been to college,
They are going by and by.
To shake the tree of knowledge,
Though its branches touch the sky.
For all their Greek and Latin,
And boring over books,
With faces smooth as satin,
They'll keep their dainty looks.

Do you want a happy comrade,
In study or in fun?
Be sure you find her quickly
'Mid the girls of Ninety-one.
She'll keep that bright head steady,
Unharmed in any whirl,
And not a lad will love her less
Because she is a girl.
—Harper's Young People.

HYMN—PSALM XI.

As flies the dove before the kite,
E'en thus my soul by sins distressed,
On wings of faith doth speed her flight,
To God, her refuge, when oppressed.

For oft the bow doth sin employ,
To speed his shafts with subtle art,
Righteous foundations to destroy,
Can he but slay the pure in heart.

But God, whose throne is placed on high,
Within his temple sacred walls,
Lets naught escape his watchful eye,
His vengeance on the wicked falls.

But oh! with what protective grace,
The Father's hand with love untold,
His loved one's way through life doth trace,
And all their righteousness uphold.
HULDA WARD.

LADY BICYCLISTS.

Bishop Coxe's warning to the sweet girl graduates to keep off the bicycle, because a "girl on a bicycle looks like a witch riding a broomstick," has awakened a very general protest. Boston Beacon says: "Properly dressed and properly trained, a woman presents as graceful an appearance on the bicycle as she can off," and this is only one of many opinions differing from the good bishop's. Bicycle riding grows in favor with girls and young women, and should not be condemned, we think, on any question of looks. If it injures the health, then it should not be encouraged. Too great indulgence in riding might have that effect, but moderate wheel exercise, since it takes the rider into the open air, ought to be beneficial. The pasty complexioned, out-of-proportioned-waist women who never exercise have gone out of fashion. May they never return. Fresh air and plenty of exercise are the best cosmetics in the world. A number of the lady readers of the Household are bicyclists. Will not some of them tell us how much and how often they ride, and what is the effect?

AGAIN IT IS THE HIRED GIRL.

To judge the characteristics of a nation by habits of a class, or draw inferences from actions of individuals to the merits of an aggregate number of people is plainly presumptious, or showing a very limited range of knowledge in human affairs. This thought occurred while reading in last Saturday's 'Household' what may be properly called "Samantha's Lament" on her apparent failure to procure the right kind of a "hired girl."

Every branch in the field of intellectual, skilled or manual labor performed by either men or women, according to the capacity or adaptability of the worker produces corresponding results, those of excellence, of mediocrity, and of failure not in a few instances. Why then should just from this class of toilers each individual be expected to be a paragon of perfection in her unenviable sphere?

Since Samantha has given her experience from a single case the writer of this begs leave to demonstrate her lesson as counter poise, from observation on a very recent visit with relatives, giving facts without the slightest embellishments.

A girl hired for general housework in a family, three small children composing a part, with the useless appendage to them known as nurse girls.

The girl rising before six, part of the day's routine work, as sweeping or cleaning windows is performed before the time for breakfast, which the babies, with hardly an exception, receive from her, accompanied by a smile or a caress, they returning both with interest.

Twice a week washing and froning of clothes; cooking meals regularly every day. All this without complaint or a murmur for three dollars a week.

Thursday afternoon (i. e. three hours of it) out; Sunday after dinner the same.

Occasionally the mistress, when deeming it politic, bestows a gracious smile on the good women as a sort of reward for merit, seeming y appreciated since others of her acquaintance do not get as much.

There is little hope of advance in wages in the houses of the middle classes, since three dollars is considered an adequate compensation for this or less work performed by domestic help.

It is true that many girls lack systematic training in housework, these girls being mostly children of poor parents and beginning to work out in families when quite young. They could save much labor and time if taught the proper elements of regulated housework, but their mistresses are even more ignorant of this kind of necessary knowledge than their employes and so the mutual dissatisfaction and frequent changes of help are the result. But this is not the fault of the poor girl since instruction in this line of work is merely in the embryo.

If the room of the girl was "good enough," why did 'Samantha' give her the apartment of her daughter? We reluctantly take an intimate friend into our sleeping rooms, why should we admit a strange person? And as to the girl running over to her friend simultaneously with her mistress visiting her neighbor, may be this is a sort of reciprocity treaty, without stipulations before hand, for a bit of gossip about each other.

The neglect of the comb would be an unpardonable fault as it might indicate untidiness in other parts of work, but have not you, dear ladies, on some accidental search for a pin in your friend's gorgeously draped dresser drawer espied brushes and comb which have never made the acquaintance of sal soda and water, those ladies not even having the excuse, the lack of leisure?

Toledo. MRS. T. HEART.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

The question I understood our hostess asked, was this: Would well bred persons do household work if respect was shown them, and comfortable rooms given them for use in the hours of rest?

Every girl should have two or three hours for that purpose in the afternoon, because, when other laborers are resting before and after meals, she is working with a greater strain upon mind and body than at other times. I believe all this can and will be accomplished in time by education in the public schools.

We have all suffered from ignorance and the lack of self restraint. I begin to think it is not wilful meanness in the girls, but simply because they do not know how to live decently and orderly.

Manners are now taught in school; soon the simplest rules of etiquette will be observed by the little ones. The domestic economy branch will not only teach cooking and serving, but gentle women will teach that courtesy which is instinctive in some natures, but which must be acquired in others.

We hope the idea of a cooking school in every ward will not be abandoned; that order and deportment will constitute a part of the course. How delightful it would be if we might live and see the effect on the next generation. Then, perhaps, the divorce lawyers would be obliged to seek other employment.

There are boys and girls who remind one of the horses who ran away because of unskilful drivers. We have had examples in Toledo, the pa. Adams street, when the horse determined to escape from all restraint, became furious, and seeing a large plate glass window in a prominent drug store thought he had found a clear field where he might roam at leisure, made a desperate plunge to reach it, and found himself and all his friends brought to grief by the resulting catastrophe.

The housekeeper-l wees we hope may be removed by research and patience on the part of employer and employes. We all need a higher education, higher motives for the simple duties of life, putting in actual practice the golden rule, or, as One said, "On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." "Love God, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Squoit Hut on the Maumee. ZENOBIA.

SARAH'S BROOM.

Still berating servant girls, eh? Can nobody see any good in us? Wherever one domestic has turned out slovenly, evil and idle, must we all get rapped on the head for that one girl's fault?

Common sense protests against any such injustice, and Sarah Gladden's broom stands right here ready for instant action in the servant girl's defense.

Why not talk face to face with an offending hired girl, pointing out her failings and encouraging her merits? No sinner was ever reformed through bringing one's sins into the eyes of a prejudiced public, or flinging one's faults over the fence to a gossiping neighborhood. If the servant girl does not suit, if she is homeless, send her not adrift until another place is found.

Some other mistress may teach those unskilled hands to neatly work; some other influence lead that indolent nature into different ways.

Constantly berating a person discourages one when in an effort to do better the heart becomes hopeless.

Maumee. SARAH GLADDEN.

A HANGING GRATE.

An iron basket, which may be made by any blacksmith, makes a very pretty grate in the fireplace, says a New York exchange. It may be hung from an iron bar in the chimney with a chain, and the bottom of the basket should be like any ordinary fire-grate. Filled with glowing coals or blazing sticks of wood it is decidedly picturesque.

A hanging basket in an open fire-place is a pretty suggestion. But in winter would it not fail to give out sufficient heat? The BEE reproduces the illustration at this unseasonable time for fires to suggest that such a basket would look most picturesque and be most useful in a fire-place when a fire was not needed; in summer time when one hardly knows how to make the fire-place look pretty and not suggestive of heat. Suppose such a basket to be lined so that sides and bottom are watertight. Then fill it with rich earth, and keep the earth moist enough to grow ferns or ivy, or anything requiring a cool place. Will not that be "decidedly picturesque," a suggestion of coolness instead of heat, a real adornment to the room?

SOME RANDOM NOTES.

Cloth grounds in dull check effects in marine blue, bluish gray and bronze are among the most salable stuffs for ulsters for next fall. The dull, barely visible checks are formed by very small stripes. With a few lines skillfully arranged are obtained effects which have made these goods great favorites. Large and small checks are equally represented.

Mrs. Hopkins-Searles, whose recent death has been much talked of because she was reputed to be the richest woman in the United States, left behind her a testimony of her wealth in a palace built for her to live in at Great Barrington, Mass., which cost $2,000,000.

The emperor of Germany does not take at all kindly to women of literature or learned proclivities, and is said to have once remarked "that for his part he preferred a lady with a talent for making jams to one who had an aptitude for discussing the constitution." Now, if his imperial majesty will come over to America he will find a large number of ladies who can not only intelligently discuss the constitution, German and American, but can also make truly delicious jams. It is evident this young Hohenzollern does not appreciate the versatility of the fin du siecle woman!

Ready-made silk underwear has taken an upward flight in the favor of the public and a downward plunge in prices, the former action probably accounting for the latter. The materials seem as good, but as more dealers handle the goods they naturally cheapen. Colored China silk and the natural pongee are bought for this purpose, and the diversity of taste among their wearers is shown in the various styles of making and trimming.

The Mexican women's exhibit of their handiwork at the world's fair will serve to show that in matters of skill, taste and the artistic handling of the needle, brush and loom the women of our sister republic are worthy to share foremost honors with our own. The Mexican women come of an art-loving race, and in-tinct, training and association have united in perfecting their sense of the beautiful in all that pertains to the affairs of life.

The simple, rather picturesque styles now in vogue for children will be retained. Guimpes of white goods may be worn all winter, though many prefer them of colored silk after the warm days have left us.

The victory of the Gladstonian candidate for parliament, Mr. Arthur Brand, in the Wisbech division of Cambridgeshire, is in part attributed to a very novel plan of campaigning. The wife of the candidate, Mrs. Brand, is an accomplished musician, and she relieved the monotony of political discussion by singing popular songs between speeches at the public meetings. The innovation was welcomed with tumultuous pleasure, the singing evidently being more convincing than the speaking.

The jacket effect is one of the prettiest for young girls, suiting their immature forms and giving withal a girlish appearance to the dress.

There is one place in the world, namely, the peninsula of Athos, in the Ægean sea, in European Turkey, where women are unknown. The population, about 6,000, all monks, form a kind of monastic republic, consisting of twenty large monasteries, besides numerous hermitages and chapels.

Black "fish-net," combined with some light or dark color, is amazingly popular. This net over violet, or mignonette green, looks amazingly well, and with yellow it is very striking, although somewhat too much. All sorts of thin stuffs, like grenadines, mousseline de soie and plain or figured net, seem to be having a very large show this month. These gowns are very airy and light, and they are useful because the foundation color can be changed a variety of times and still be an effective whole.—London Letter.

"I like this dress very much," said Ethel. "It is just too delightfully tight. But where are the pockets?"

"Here they are," said the dressmaker, handing her two small silken bags. "You'll have to carry them in your hands. There's not room in the dress for them."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox condemns the practice of young girls being forced to rise early after a night spent in social gaieties, and says:

"I never yet heard a woman declare herself a poor sleeper or an early riser under all circumstances who did not wear a jaded and worn appearance.

"I never yet saw a woman who was renowned or remarkable for having kept her youthful looks and her health who was not a good sleeper, and who if she lost her early hours in the night by social pleasures, did not make up for them in the daytime.

"All the cosmetics, all the massage, all the beauty baths and physical culture in the world cannot do for fagged cheeks and hollow eyes and fatigue-blanched face what one good hour of sleep every afternoon will do."

FOR HOME DRESSMAKERS.

The amateur dressmaker has usually a number of petty worries, and one special to her is the cutting of velvet. As it is used so much, even on cotton costumes, it is necessary that she should know just how it should be done. Dressmakers prefer to cut velvet with the pile running up, for then it doesn't flatten down from wear; however, no matter what way you may cut it, at least have it all alike.

When you cut any figured or floral design do not make the mistake of cutting two pieces at once, as is often done with plain goods. The figures and stripes should always match perfectly, and this is not possible when two sections are cut together.

About velvet folds. Don't rely on having the last ones the right size by laying the first one on the material and following its outlines. The result will be waste of fabric and irregular folds. The same care in measuring must be taken with each one, and it is not wise to rely on the eye for exactness, but to mark the line with chalk and then to cut it.

It is most desirable to put braid on by hand; hem it down, because then it will not curl up at the sides. Do not put it on very tight, as it draws and looks very ugly.

Never tear lawns or cambrics; it rolls the edges. Draw thread and then cut the widths.

Do not under any circumstances make a bodice that fits you like a tight glove. It is not good to look at and it will certainly stretch at the seams and ravel and proclaim that it was made by some one who didn't understand the art of dressmaking.

KITCHEN CONFERENCE.

Nellie W. writes that her recipe for sherbet was intended for an ice and not for a drink. We trust none of the Household were inconvenienced by the Hostess' mistake. If the receipt has been tried the Hostess has already been found out, and now makes open confession of having read the recipe wrong. It was correctly printed in the paper, and now we give assurance that the ice will be found good.

From the oven hot and steaming,
With the ruby bubbles gleaming
As they boil up through the craters in little puffs and sighs—
There's restless invitation
To the palate's delectation;
In the odor and the look of these "poetic" cherry pies.

Oh, their juice than wine is richer!
It is poured from out the pitcher
Where is stored the luscious nectar distilled at Summer's prime.
Show these pies to Doctor Tanner.
He would forthwith strike his banner
And put off the fasting racket to a more convenient time.

But give the under crust a quick, brown bake, and do not use a full upper crust at all. Only lay pieces of dough in strips across the top, before baking. Then the pie will not only be poetic, but healthful, which is more than can be said of most pies.

FRUITS FOR BREAKFAST.

Serve blackberries in small glass dishes with sugar and milk or cream.

Serve raspberries without sugar.

Serve muskmelons with some chipped ice in each hemisphere, and with salt, sugar and a knife, fork and teaspoon at each plate.

Serve peaches pared, sliced and with sugar and cream.

Serve grapes, for a novelty, in a thin crystal tumbler with ice water.

Serve sweet apples pared, sliced, dusted with sugar and deluged with sweet cream.

Serve pears pared, sliced and with sugar and whipped cream.

Serve huckleberries in a quart bowl filled with rich new milk with crackers crumbled in. Half a cup of berries.

Serve bananas sliced and with cream and powdered sugar.

BOSTON BROWN HASH.

Chop any remains of steaks, roasts, or stews very fine. Grease deep pie dishes. Put a layer of mashed potatoes (cold ones, left over, will answer) in the bottom of the dish, then a layer of meat, then a layer of stale breadcrumbs; sprinkle with salt and pepper; place here and there a few bits of butter, and moisten with half-cup of beef gravy, then another layer of potatoes. Bake in a moderate oven for about a half hour until a nice brown. Serve hot.

DRIED BEEF RELISH.

This is a way to use up the hard, small ends of dried beef that you cannot cut: Grate the meat, and to every cupful allow four tablespoons of cream, four eggs well beaten, and a little pepper. Put the meat and cream into a stewing pan; when hot, add the eggs; stir until the mixture becomes thick. Serve immediately on squares of buttered toast.

POTATO ROLL.

Put one cupful of cold mashed potatoes into a saucepan, add one quarter of a cupful of milk and a palatable seasoning of salt and pepper, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and two well beaten eggs. Mix thoroughly, take from the fire, beat until light. Put one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, when not put in the potatoes, spread evenly over the pan, cook slowly until a golden brown. Roll like an omelet, and serve smoking hot.

FOR THE TOILET

There is no more useful or elegant article than Ayer's Hair Vigor—the most popular and economical hair-dressing in the market. It causes the hair to grow abundantly and retain the beauty and texture of youth; prevents baldness, heals troublesome humors of the scalp and keeps it clean, cool, and healthy. Both ladies and gentlemen everywhere prefer Ayer's Hair Vigor to any other dressing for the hair. Mrs. Lydia O. Moody, E. Pittston, Me., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for some time, and it has worked wonders for me. I was troubled with dandruff and falling hair, so that I was rapidly becoming bald; but since using the Vigor, my head is perfectly clear of dandruff, the hair has ceased coming out, and I now have a good growth, of the same color as when I was a young woman. I can heartily recommend the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor to any one suffering from dandruff or loss of hair."

Special Low Prices on Pianos at THE WHITNEY-CURRIER CO.

Inasmuch as we have not moved our place of business for more than twenty years the expense incident to tearing up and removing every two or three years has been saved. This enables us to give lower prices, better bargains and better goods than any piano factory concern who uses the necessary "moving" as a pretext for offering sham inducements. We shall continue through July and August, this year and next, to offer extraordinary inducements to buyers of pianos and organs to patronize our house. We sell the best pianos made, acknowledged and recognized as such, as well as commoner grades, such as offered by our competitors. Our price, when grade and quality is considered, is lower, by far, than has heretofore been offered by any Toledo dealer or agent.

The latest "racket" of the shover of the counterfeit or plugged coin is said to be this: He holds the coin between his fingers for a moment in order to show you its denomination at a short distance, then spins it to you across the counter. There is much complaint from East Toledo relative to the manner in which Oak street is left, it being a canal most of the time. Enough money has been spent making so-called repairs to put down a good pavement. Property owners paid for macadamizing the road some time since, and at the present rate of digging and ploughing there will be none of it left. As it is, the street is shunned as much as possible. But then the money must be spent, without regard to the voice of taxpayers. Commissioner Bower's administration has been an expensive luxury.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we went for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way, for we had not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought h would always be baldheaded. There was not a spot on his whole body, face and head, only nose and eyes but what was as raw as beef-steak. So poor there was not anything but bones, and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

Mrs. FRANK BARRETT, Winfield, Mich.
